Russ Take Porkhov On Way to Pskov

LONDON (AP)—The Red Army today captured the railway town of Porkhov, 45 miles east of the big communications centre of Pskov on the main road from Dno, Moscow announced tonight in a broadcast communique.

The Russians overran more than 100 other populated places in their crushing offensive in this region.

In the sector immediately to the south the Russian forces completely cleared the 105-mile stretch of railway between Dno and Novosokolniki, the bulletin said, overrunning another 210 populated places in this region.

Randolph Churchill Parachutes to Tito

LONDON (CP)—Capt. Randolph Churchill, son of the Prime Minister, is conferring with Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), the Yugoslav guerrilla leader, after presumably parachuting into Yugoslavia, it was learned today.

Fire in Calgary

CALGARY (CP)—Loss from fire which swept through the Douglas Block on 8th Avenue West today, damaging the Royal Bank of Canada premises, ten suites above the bank, and Wilson's electric shop, is estimated at $75,000.

de Gaulle Not Wounded

ALGIERS (AP)—There is no truth to a Berlin broadcast report that Gen. Charles de Gaulle had been wounded in an attempted assassination, it was announced here today.

Airways Operator Dies

NEW YORK (CP)—Clarence B. Coombs, 55, who organized and operated Commercial Airways Ltd. of Canada, died in a hospital today of post-operative pneumonia.

Limits on Immigration

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian services must be established in jobs before any immigration into western Canada can be considered, declared one of three resolutions presented to the 27th annual meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada (British Columbia Command) here today.

All Japanese without exception should be repatriated after the war, another resolution asks.

Nazis Out of Albania?

NEW YORK (AP)—The Nazi-controlled Tirana, radio, in a broadcast reported today by U.S. government monitors, said that Qasim Mullet, described as the new prefect of the Albanian capital, had told a meeting the Germans might withdraw their forces from Albania for "military reasons."

Search for Radium

LONDON (AP)—Demolition workers, directed by scientists, searched the bomb ruins of the Marie Curie Radium Therapy Hospital today for a half-gram of radium, estimated to be worth $12,000, lost when a direct hit demolished a part of the hospital during a recent London raid. There were no casualties.

Bastion To Commemorate Victoria Centenary

Historical reproduction of first Fort here planned for harbor side.

An exact replica of the bastion in old Fort Victoria to be constructed on the north side of the harbor adjoining the oil station was disclosed in plans made public today at the City Hall.

The bastion will stand as a permanent Victoria Centenary memorial, it was explained, and start of its construction next month will mark the culmination of the year-long centenary observances which began last March.

Plans for the bastion will go before the next meeting of the City Council for final ratification, it was learned.

Alderman W. H. Davies, chairman of the Centenary Committee, confirmed the report that from the committee's funds last spring $3,500 had been set aside for construction of a permanent bastion.

"We see no reason why Victoria should not have a bastion similar to the one which stands in Manzanillo and which is one of the chief tourist attractions of that city," said Ald. Davies.

From Bruce McKelvie of the B.C. Historical Society, he has received a letter written by R. B. Harrison of the Nanaimo Native Sons setting down the specifications and plans of the up-island town's bastion.

Ald. Davies said that his committee expects to follow many of the suggestions offered in this letter.

Nazis Desperately Counterattacking In White Russia

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Germany's armies in White Russia counterattacked desperately today in attempts to plug their crumbling central front, but Russian units fighting through heavy snows continued to exploit their large-scale breakthrough near Rogachev, front-line dispatches said.

To the northwest Soviet forces were closing in rapidly on Pskov in a two-pronged attack from the northeast and southeast.

The drive from the northeast down the Leningrad railroad and highways has placed the Russians in position to shell Pskov's outer defences, press dispatches said, and the highway to the key rail centre was reported now open, except for the numerous barricades of minefields the Germans have been frantically laying.

The Russian southern army was reported to have reached within five miles of Pskov, only 45 miles from Pskov, and last important communications centre to the east.

There the Russian columns stand but 50 miles northeast of Ostrov, a strong point which the Germans must hold if they keep the Russian forces from throwing a pincer attack on Pskov.

This southeastern drive was considered in front-line dispatches more significant than any thrust at the city itself at the moment.

(The BBC in a broadcast quoted a Moscow report as saying Pskov has been outflanked, with one Russian column already at the town's outskirts, and another column six miles to the north.)

The broadcast quoted report as saying the Red Army's White Russian forces have made great progress from captured Rogachev, and are rapidly approaching Bobruisk on the road to Minsk.)

In Sunny California

A torrent of water sweeps across Tujunga Bridge, near Los Angeles, Calif., tearing down fences and washing cars off the road during the worst storm in southern California in seven years. One part of one of the two cars shown (foreground and left) was drowned, the other rescued.

Not Censorable

VANCOUVER (CP)—Elmore Philpott's broadcasts are in the form of news commentaries and as such do not come under radio censorship regulations, Ira Dilworth, regional representative of CBC and manager of station CBR here, said today.

Mr. Dilworth was commenting on statements made in the House of Commons Friday afternoon by J. G. Diefenbaker, Lake Centre, Sask., asking if a broadcast by Mr. Philpott had been censored before delivery.

"We don't act as a censorship body on news," said Mr. Dilworth. "There are certain limits placed on commentators, but they are not exactly censorable." (See report of Commons discussion, page 3.)

Nazis In Italy Lose 15,000 Men Since Beachheads Battles Began

ALGIERS (AP)—The Germans may have lost 15,000 in casualties in Italian operations since Jan. 22, including their latest offensive against the Allied beachhead at Anzio, an Allied headquarters spokesman said today.

The ineffective Nazi stab was made on the Allied right flank in the Pontine marsh area about four miles from the coast at a point south of Cisterna and west of Littoria. Taking advantage of the ravine terrain near Caracalla on the other end of the beachhead, the Nazis tried to slip through the Allied lines, but all their attempts were unsuccessful.

High winds sweeping the mountains on the Allied 5th Army Cassino front, together with snow flurries, helped to keep that sector more or less stationary except for patrolling, but the Germans again attacked a French-held hill northwest of Cassino and again were thrown back. On that front as well as on the beachhead, heavy guns, etc., both sides kept up their endless shellings.

93 PLANES BAGGED

Headquarters announced 93 German planes were destroyed and 14 more probably were knocked down on the Italian leg of Friday's simultaneous U.S. heavy bomber assault against Regensburg, Germany, by bombers flying from Italy and Britain.

Thirty-nine bombers and five fighters were reported missing from the heavy bomber thrusts, also aimed at the Italian ports of Fiume and Pola, the Yugoslav port of Zara, and an airfield near Graz in southern Austria.

The total of German fighters destroyed on the Regensburg mission and elsewhere Friday was fixed at 93, setting a new record for the Mediterranean air force. The previous high was 87 German planes knocked out in Tunisia last April.

Heavy bombers from Britain made the 1,600-mile round trip to Augsburg.

The night blow followed an unprecedented two-way stab Friday at a single target—Regensburg's Messerschmitt factory. U.S. heavy bombers flew from both Britain and Italy.

The 15th A.A.F. (from Italy) encountered 250 to 300 enemy aircraft and destroyed 93 fighters in a violent and prolonged air battle," headquarters said.

Together, the attacking forces destroyed 142 enemy aircraft against a loss of 69 heavy bombers. The 15th lost 39 bombers, the 8th 30.

Photographs made at Augsburg, Furtw., a Stuttgart ballbearing plant and Regensburg "showed good results," the communique said.

Raids Prevent Replacement of Battle Losses

LONDON (CP)—Germany's aircraft industry—target of the world's greatest aerial offensive during the past six days—has been bombed to the point where it is believed the factories will be unable to keep up with current German losses in fighter planes, a high-ranking U.S. army air force spokesman said today.

The spokesman, who was reviewing only the United States' part in the huge Allied raids into enemy territory, claimed that Germany's twin-engine fighter production has been cut since Jan. 1 by 80 per cent and single-engine fighter production has been reduced by 60 per cent. These figures, he said, were based on preliminary reconnaissance and referred only to results of U.S.A.F. actions.

17,000 Tons In 6 Days' Raids

Friday night a massive fleet of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. bombers carried out a crushing attack on the burning city of Augsburg and piled up a total of more than 17,000 tons of bombs dropped on Germany in the six-day attack on Germany's aircraft industry.

The German radio said large-scale attacks on the chemical centre of Frankfurt were made at the same time, and the Swiss radio said night flights crossed Switzerland from Italy—raising the distinct possibility that Italy-based Wellingtons of the R.A.F. again carried out a two-way British assault as they had the night before.

Engine Production Centre Hit Twice

The Air Ministry communique announcing the operation against Augsburg said it was carried out in "very great strength" and that the city, a centre of aerial engine production, was attacked twice during the night by large forces of Lancaster and Halifax bombers.

R.C.A.F. bomber group were reported to have participated.

Twenty-four planes were lost in these assaults and in simultaneous Mosquito operations over southwest Germany and the Low Countries, and in extensive missile sweeps. Eight of the missing planes were Canadian.

War Raffles Illegal Commissioners Told

The deputy Attorney-General today informed Victoria police commissioners Margaret D. Christie and B. J. Gadsden that all war and charity raffles are illegal, under the Criminal Code.

Only exemption are raffles, up to a certain amount, at church bazaars.

Aldermen Christie and Gadsden sought an interview with Attorney-General Maitland, but because he was out of town they saw his deputy, Eric Pepler, K.C.

They said they had seen in the papers a war raffle would be held on downtown streets today.

Following the interview Alderman Gadsden said "we decided we wouldn't commit ourselves in any way."

He said no one can give any permission to hold war and charity raffles.

"Anything in aid of the war effort has my full support," he said, "but as police commissioners we have our oaths of office to weigh on our minds."

$100,000 'To Face Storm'

Red Cross asks from Victorians in the next two weeks, $100,000. The annual Dominion-wide drive opens Monday.

Last year's objective was $80,000 and residents of Greater Victoria gave $125,000 to the Red Cross. This year the organization's needs are even greater.

"Our Canadian Red Cross faces the coming storm with renewed strength and determination to be faithful to every duty," said Major Harold Brown, honorary chairman of the Victoria drive.

"Eight hundred enthusiastic workers go forth this week to represent this vital cause. We hope and believe that Greater Victoria will respond and place our community in the forefront of the national effort."

Canvassers of "B" Division of Victoria's Red Cross drive received final instructions from Major Brown at a dinner at the Y.M.C.A. Friday evening. Frank Paulding, campaign manager, gave technical instructions to the canvassers. J. Burridge, head of "B" division, was chairman.

Snowdrops and Daisies In Wartime England

By Vernon M. Kipp of the party of Canadian journalists now touring Britain as a guest of the British Ministry of Information.

LONDON—There is a large photograph in The Times this morning of snowdrops blooming in a Dorset wood. I do not think it is farfetched to offer this fact as one small sidelight on Britain at war. War is the predominant thought in the public mind, of course, but not to the exclusion of everything else. War reminds you to keep the blackout curtains tightly closed at night. War makes of night transport a great nuisance. You think of war when you hear an airplane high above in the silence of the night—and you hope it's friendly, as it is. War means no fruit, and rigid rations. But life goes on and flowers are part of life.

We had lunch with a group of officers of the Canadian Artillery, in a residence taken over for their use. The house was unheated, and there was a minimum of furniture, but outside the window a delicate pale pink rose was blooming. A little earlier, on the grounds of another house taken over by the Canadian Army, we watched a young soldier transplanting perennials, while in front of him rumbled great military trucks and across the way Canadian guns stood their vigil.

We left our hotel in Southampton to look at High Street—"High Street" said the lady in the hotel, "just go through the park, but there's nothing on High Street—just ruins"—and strolled through the park. Beside the paths were neat rectangular beds

Japs Say Warships Attack Guam

NEW YORK (AP)—A Berlin broadcast of a Tokyo dispatch today said a violent battle of several days was in progress "for possession of the Pacific Island of Guam," with the Japanese garrison fighting to stave off attacks by a U.S. naval formation.

"A communique on this fighting is expected from Japanese headquarters this Saturday," said the broadcast.

"This former United States property is situated nearest to the Japanese islands," it added. Earlier the British radio had picked up a Japanese broadcast which said U.S. naval forces were attacking the island.

The BBC, as heard here, noted that Allied accounts had told of an aerial blow at Guam, but said "nothing is known about this latest Japanese claim."

One of the Royal Navy's most daring exploits is revealed with announcement that British midget submarines torpedoed the great German battleship Tirpitz last September. Through treacherous, heavily-guarded channels of Norway's Altenfjord, they got to within 200 yards of the enemy ship before losing their missiles. B.C. Seaforths In Front Line True To Burns Tradition; Aldershot Pig Mystery Solved

By GREGORY CLARK

ALGIERS (Special)—Some things are more important than others, and a strange sight you might have seen in the slit trenches and outposts of the Seaforths from British Columbia when, as dusk drew down, every sergeant of the regiment was relieved by an officer and every sergeant headed back to the line. For it was Burns Night, and the 22nd annual Burns supper of the Seaforths' mess of the Seaforths. And not even a war could interfere with that tradition.

In a ruined building two miles back, the sergeants' mess was in fine array with glass and china and silver, the equal of the best hotel in Canada. The haggis was there, made by the Italian mess sergeant. The printed menu and toast list was there, printed in the ruins of Ortona. The pipes were there and the sword for killing the haggis.

Out of the dusk just as they were, muddy and towed from the slit trenches and the patrols, came the sergeants and warrant officers of the Seaforths, and the full ritual of a Burns supper was gone through without haste or hurry while the guns behind barked and shook and, in front, the rattle and thud of a particularly lively night up the line made this perhaps the strangest Burns supper in the world.

The colonel and the adjutant and the youngest subaltern of the regiment were, according to tradition, invited, as were the brigadier and divisional commander. All other officers of the regiment, including those left out of battle at the rear, had taken over from the sergeants.

This was the menu of last night's supper, midway between the field guns and the slit trenches.

WHAT WE'LL HAE
Chappit Fruit (by Highland Mary)

Green Pea Soup (by Jean Armour)
Haggis wi' a' the Honors
Roastit soo, Foggia
Cauliflower, Carrots, Roastit
Tatties
Alphee Pie Lanciaio
Cheese Scrounge
Oatcakes Brasco
Battery Rolls
Coffee, chased from Sangro
Salted Almonds

Three days before the dinner a good fat pig had been located far behind the lines in a country little disturbed by war. Due arrangements for its purchase had been made. But when the quartermaster arrived for it, it had been sold. This grim news sent the rear echelon of the Seaforths on a foraging hunt unparalleled in the 22 years' history of the event, and at a British unit some miles behind visible from the road was a large young pig tied to a tree. Investigation proved that this was a hog brought from Foggia for the officers' mess of this British regiment.

But the quartermaster of the unit was a Scot. And, when these bonneted highlanders from the Pacific explained what for they wanted a pig, the animal was sold spot cash for what it had cost. I saw this pig, sitting in a jeep, a figure of astonishment rather than misery the day it went into the Seaforths. It provided the item "roastit soo, Foggia" on the menu.

CHLOROFORMED PIG

This pig's story permits now to be told the story of another pig the Seaforths' sergeants' mess acquired four years ago for the Burns supper of that year, the first in Britain. Due to food restrictions it was wholly impossible to buy a whole hog. Every reasonable avenue was explored, but in vain. However, a pig was located in a suitable territory and it was decided that a special committee should be entrusted with the job of chloroforming the animal and fetching it unconscious into the sergeants' mess where it could be duly butchered.

The sortie was a complete success except that two or three times the pig began to recover and emit squeals and the quartermaster-sergeant with the bottle of anaesthetic had to administer further doses. The consumption of chloroform plus the subsequent butchering of the hog in the sergeants' mess kitchen proved too much for the quartermaster, who retired and was violently ill. He lost both his supper and lower false teeth down the drain. But worse, to dispose of the entrails of the neatly butchered hog the boys put them down the drain. And the following morning all drains in that section of the camp were plugged. Civilian drain experts of Aldershot were brought in.

The defect in the drain was traced to its source, and to the horror of the whole army area the gruesome discovery was made of a quantity of entrails and a set of human false teeth. Not only military police but the C.I.D. were brought into the case. It remained an unsolved mystery, for even the quartermaster-sergeant did not want his teeth back and he a Scot. It is off to now, in respect to this 22nd dinner held between the guns and the slit trenches, that the sergeants feel free to confess to the deed.

REMEMBER FALLEN

Lt. William Sinclair, veteran of the Argylls in the war and charter member of the Burns Fellowship in Vancouver, gave the address to the Haggis. The regimental sergeant-major, R. M. Black, was chairman. Pipe-Major Edmund Eason of the great black beard toasted the immortal memory. CSM. Jock Gibson, who won fame in Ortona by discovering a new way of house fighting by removing the roof tiles of the house and dropping feet first on the enemy, toasted "Fallen Comrades," all of whom were veterans of many a Burns supper in peace and war with this regiment. CQMS. Ross Boyd of Seaforth, Ont., was specially noted for it was his birthday as well as Burns'. Lieut. David Fairweather responded to the toast to the lasses, and, according to tradition, the person who makes this reply is always married within the year.

After the dinner Lieut. David Fairweather returned to his company, went on a patrol, found a slit trench obviously only left a few moments before by Germans, lay in the trench until three Germans returned, and he killed them all.

And when the dinner broke up the sergeants went out into the night and back up the line to their platoons and took over from their officers again and the unbroken tradition had touched its most shining hour.

Tacoma Bond Buyers Voyage on Flat Tops

TACOMA (AP) — H.M.S. Reaper, British auxiliary aircraft carrier, left here today for Vancouver, B.C., carrying on a goodwill mission to the Canadian port of a group of Pierce County citizens who won the opportunity to go by purchasing Fourth War Loan bonds. (H.M.S. Reaper will not visit Victoria.)

There also are other passengers representing this city and Seattle, and a group of 25 persons from Vancouver, headed by Capt. R. E. Kingscott, R.C.N., British Admiralty delegation representative in Vancouver.

The ship is one of a series of flat-tops built here by the Seattle Tacoma Shipbuilding Corp. for the British navy, and is captained by Cmdr. W. H. B. Wallace, R.N., and manned by a British crew. It is due to reach Vancouver at 6 this evening, at which time officials and passengers will be dinner guests of the Vancouver Board of Trade.

The unusual opportunity for U.S. civilians to travel on a British warship was arranged by the British Admiralty to spur war bond sales. The trip was won by 35 persons, whose names were selected in a lucky draw from among 50,000 Tacoma-Pierce County war bond purchasers.

chasers. Each winner was permitted to bring one guest.

Among representatives from here are Lt. Cmdr. F. P. Litchfield, Royal Navy liaison officer; Tacoma's acting mayor, C. Val Fawcett and Mrs. Fawcett; Leon C. E. Titus, chairman of the Tacoma-Pierce County war finance committee, and Mrs. Titus, and George F. Kachlein, assistant manager of the Tacoma yard of the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corp., and Mrs. Kachlein.

A Seattle group includes Harold C. Swan, British consul, and Mrs. Swan, and Francis J. Pelly, vice-consul, and Mrs. Pelly. Passengers will return to their homes by railway.

Doriot in Paris

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacques Doriot, head of the pro-Nazi French Popular Party, has arrived in Paris from the "eastern front," the Paris radio said today in a broadcast recorded by U.S. government monitors. The broadcast said Doriot will issue a report on the activities of French "volunteers" fighting alongside the Germans on the Russian front.

Nazi U-Boat Claims

NEW YORK (AP) — The Berlin radio said today German U-boats had sunk seven freighters totaling 35,185 tons and eight sailing vessels recently in the Atlantic.

Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee Organizes

E. J. SMITH, secretary-treasurer.

Completion of organization of Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee was announced today following a meeting of foundation members. They elected F. E. Winslow chairman, A. J. Watson, vice-chairman, and E. J. Smith, honorary secretary-treasurer.

Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee was formed at the request of the Department of Pensions and National Health to study the re-establishment problem for men and women of the services and merchant marine. Mr. Winslow explained. Their tasks include knowledge of various pensions acts, soldiers' settlements and generally to assist in rehabilitation of all service people.

"Rehabilitation objectives affect the entire public," Mr. Winslow said. "Everyone has relatives or friends in the services. We want public interest and public assistance. We are especially interested in re-establishment of Victoria people. It's the individual cases for which we must care."

Mr. Smith, secretary-treasurer, came to Victoria recently following his retirement after 38 years as general auditor with the T. Eaton Co. at Winnipeg. He is a veteran of the Boer War and the first World War.

"We hope to have an office soon that will serve as headquarters for the committee," he said. "There we will contact men and women as they return from service."

"Department of Pensions and National Health has requested formation of the rehabilitation committees in all centres. Representatives of the department are already working on rehabilitation schemes which involve further education and technical training as well as land settlements. Our committee has been formed to work in harmony with these welfare officers."

Elected as an executive were Nancy Hodges, M.L.A.; W. M. Martindale, J. L. Beattie, F. B. McConnell. Other foundation members are F. L. Shaw, C. S. Gonnason, H. W. Beckwith, J. I. Gawnthorpe, A. H. Peace, J. V. Johnson, George Biddle, J. H. Wilson, G. H. Walton, W. P. Pemberton, Kenneth Drury, Burges Cadden, H. J. Pendray and M. L. Butcher.

Believe Helsinki To Accept Peace Terms of Russia

By JUDSON O'QUINN

LONDON (AP) — An early peace growing out of current Finnish — Russian negotiations appeared in prospect today as London diplomats expressed belief Helsinki would accept Soviet terms, possibly early next week.

With the Red Army in a strategic position to roll them back across the 40-mile-wide Karelian Isthmus, the Finns are unlikely to refuse a reported six-point Russian proposal, it was regarded here.

The fact the Russians are holding up a ground campaign against the Finns although their position on the Leningrad front is favorable was seen here as an indication Moscow is keeping the door open and expecting a quick reply.

EYES ON GERMANS

Russian terms reported from neutral countries, circulating unofficially in London although both the British and U.S. governments presumably were fully informed, leave one knotty problem for the Finns — the internment of 100,000 German troops in northern Finland.

This probably will be the main point of discussion if the Finns accept the reported Russian invitation to send military and political delegations to Moscow. The fact that reports of the purported Russian terms were permitted by censorship to be printed in the Finnish press seemed an indication the government was preparing the people for an important step soon.

Bishop Replies to Bishop

Rt. Rev. John C. Cody, Catholic Bishop of Victoria, today issued the following reply to Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Anglican Bishop of British Columbia, because of statement on marriage made by the latter in his pastoral address to the Synod:

"As Bishop of Victoria I feel the community will appreciate an explanation of the Catholic viewpoint regarding mixed marriages since His Lordship's Bishop Sexton, according to press reports of Feb. 16, declared our terms to be 'humiliating,' imposed 'under duress' and savoring of 'ecclesiastical fascism.' Bearing in mind that as the Apostles Creed indicates we are the senior church by some 1,535 years, and that the dissolution did not originate by Catholicism breaking away from Anglicanism, but vice versa, here are some of the salient points:

"1. The Catholic Church does all that is reasonably possible to curtail the number of mixed marriages not through any dislike for non-Catholics, but because she dislikes unhappy homes so often though not always the result of such unions. Experience, the most costly of teachers, proves how frequently our Lord's words apply to a divided home: 'Every house divided against itself shall not stand.' (Matt. xii, 25).

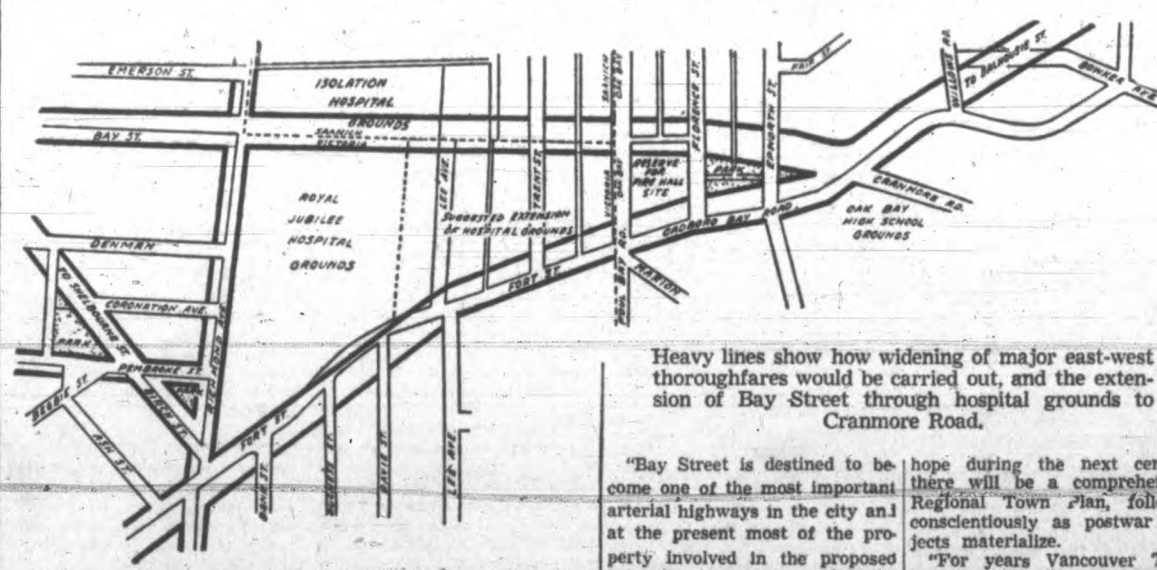

"2. Christian marriage being not only a contract but a sacrament, the Catholic Church is perfectly within her rights in laying down for her own subjects the conditions under which she will permit a mixed marriage, for to the original church Christ said: 'He that heareth you, heareth Me; he that despiseth you, despiseth Me' (Luke 16). Let the Anglican Church make for its adherents whatever regulations it may deem wise!

"3. Even from the simple viewpoint of reason, marriage being an important contract the Catholic Church feels confident that matters will be much more likely to turn out satisfactorily when the terms of the contract are made perfectly clear beforehand and duly signed and sealed by the contracting parties. The alternative all too often is to fight it out later, pitting husband against wife, brother against sister in a perpetual religious squabble, or worse still to banish all religion from the home (Psalm 126, 1). Bishop Sexton seems to infer that 'love' would solve the issue, but the steady grind of the divorce courts shows that unfortunately love is not a cure-all. Love did not solve the problems of Henry VIII nor of Edward VIII. Admittedly the problem is a thorny one, but so long as the Anglican Church fails to deal with it officially and offers only 'advice' on such a crucial matter, her subjects will naturally feel free to accept the terms of the Catholic party."

"4. In regard to the alleged 'duress,' let it be said that every law places a certain restraint upon us, but surely Bishop Sexton does not claim that the restraint in this case takes away one's free will, for if so he would have to maintain that all mixed marriages performed by a Catholic priest are invalid. The state makes no such contention."

"5. We admit that like her Divine Founder the Catholic Church speaks 'as one having authority' (Matt. vii, 29), but the charge of 'ecclesiastical fascism,' a faint echo of Stalin's two recent blasts at the Vatican, is a poor substitute for the message of sympathy Catholics might reasonably have expected from the 42nd synod. The Pope has been called 'fascist' by the Communist, and 'Communist' by the Fascist; he has been called 'anti-Nazi' in Germany, and 'anti-Fascist' and 'reactionary' in Italy. It will be to his undying credit that he had been hated by all Godless governments, and has been called names by them all. The weekly magazine Time, which to put it mildly, has no pro-Catholic bias, had this to record: 'No matter what critics say, it is scarcely deniable that the Church Apostolic, through the encyclicals and other Papal pronouncements, has been fighting against totalitarianism more knowingly, devoutly and authoritatively, and for a longer time, than any other organized power.'"

Widened Arterials Planned To Uplands and Willows Districts

Heavy lines show how widening of major east-west thoroughfares would be carried out, and the extension of Bay Street through hospital grounds to Cranmore Road.

"Bay Street is destined to become one of the most important arterial highways in the city and at the present most of the property involved in the proposed extension is vacant, so that the cost of this improvement would be negligible," said L. A. Gale, town planning secretary.

"It is not intended that all the improvements shown in our plans shall be undertaken immediately, but the street lines should be established now and all postwar construction of both highways and houses should conform to these lines."

"A major street system is the foundation on which any city is built. For 100 years there has been bad planning here. Let us hope during the next century there will be a comprehensive Regional Town Plan, followed conscientiously as postwar projects materialize."

"For years Vancouver Town Planning Association has endeavored to have the Town Planning Act amended so that metropolitan districts such as Vancouver and Victoria would have authority to establish regional town planning commissions."

"Necessity for such enabling legislation is clearly shown in today's plans for making Bay Street an arterial. Within the two-mile circle three municipalities are involved in such a simple matter as extending Bay Street for six blocks to intersect Cadboro Bay Road at Cranmore."

Would End Truce In British Politics

PLYMOUTH, Eng. (CP) — An outspoken demand that Great Britain's political truce be ended "so that public opinion, now stifled, shall be free to express itself" was made today by Lady Violet Bonham-Carter, newly-elected president of the Liberal Party.

"We have an old, stale House of Commons, out of touch and out of date," said Lady Violet in an address here. "It has been refreshed from time to time by government nominees and old party hacks. We have a disfranchised youth."

"The result is that Parliament and the people are out of touch, and the gulf between them is steadily widening."

The war-time truce among the Conservatives, Laborites and Liberals — Britain's three major parties — provides that none shall name candidates for Parliamentary vacancies, the candidate being nominated by the party which held the seat at the time of vacancy.

Lady Bonham-Carter is the daughter of the late Earl of Oxford and Asquith, Prime Minister during the early years of the first Great War.

House Orders Committee Probe Of CBC After Fiery Discussion

By JAMES MCCOOK
OTTAWA (CP)—The storm signals which have marked the month-old 1944 session remained flying high when the House of Commons closed another week of business Friday night.

The members approved a motion by War Services Minister LaFleche again to set up a special committee on radio broadcasting, but in so doing exchanged some vigorous comments on Broadcasting in general, and the CBC in particular.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, who commended much of the work done by the CBC, heard Liberal and New Democracy speakers say CBC news broadcasts placed too much emphasis on what he said and on his party policies.

Gen. LaFleche said Dr. Coldwell had expressed some fear that Canada might some day be governed under national socialism.

"I do not think that will be the case," he continued.

"Nor do I," said Mr. Coldwell. "We now have the member for Rosemont-Biggar (Mr. Coldwell) expressing publicly in this House the view, the opinion that he will never come to power," replied the general.

Rising on a point of order, Mr. Coldwell said Canada was at war with the National Socialists and that when members tried to apply the term to the C.C.F. they transgressed the House rules.

Invites Arrest Or Withdrawal

"I say either that it (the statement) be withdrawn, or you arrest me as an enemy of this country, one or the other," he added. "You cannot have it both ways."

Speaker J. A. Glen said Mr. Coldwell had denied he was identified with the National Socialists and, having stated his position, there was no point of order.

Gen. LaFleche said the C.C.F. leader and his party did not like to be called National Socialists, "despite what has been said many times, and despite that his lieutenant in British Columbia preached the methods employed by that party in Germany of which our friend says he is not a..."

Mr. Coldwell interrupted. He said he wished to have a copy of the Hansard report of what Gen. LaFleche had said.

Speaker Glen said he wished to check the minister's statement to which Mr. Coldwell had objected. His decision on whether a withdrawal should be made probably will be given Monday.

Gen. LaFleche said C.C.F. speakers had charged political interference with the CBC by the government and he denied such interference had occurred.

"I have no admiration for men who do nothing of which I know to help win the war, but remain at home, perhaps not unwillingly yet effectively to cause trouble in a family which should remain united so that we can do a better job in helping the other United Nations in downing our enemies," said LaFleche.

Mr. Coldwell said the minister was casting a reflection on Stanley Knowles (C.C.F., Winnipeg, North Centre), and himself. Both had said there appeared to have been interference with the CBC. "If I am at fault, of course I wish to make amends," said Gen. LaFleche. "I am a law-abiding man and I am truthful."

Mr. Coldwell: "I give up."

Diefenbaker Protests Philpott's Comment

J. G. Diefenbaker Prog. Con. Lake Centre, Sask., asked what degree of censorship is enforced by the CBC generally, and what degree is imposed on commentators using CBC facilities or receiving a retainer from the corporation.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that recently Elmore Philpott, Vancouver commentator, had spoken about Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNair over the CBC facilities.

"I haven't the text of that talk, and I don't want to misquote the commentator, but in my opinion he left the radio audience with the impression that Canada was fighting two wars—one with the enemy and the other with the British War Office as to the use of Canadian troops," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

"The commentator was allowed to discuss a question which the government felt it was not in the public interest to discuss in this House."

He urged creation of an independent board, similar to the board of transport commissioners, to regulate radio in Canada and the relations of the CBC to privately-owned stations.

Rev. E. G. Hansell, Ind., MacLeod, Alta., said he would go further and revamp the whole structure of the corporation, leaving the CBC governors with control only over the affairs of their own corporation. For the general regulation of radio in Canada, he proposed a three-man commission with one member nominated by the CBC, one by private stations and one by the government.

Questions Programs Paid Great Sums

Mr. Hansell also believed the committee now being set up should look into profits earned by sponsors of radio programs.

He cited the costs of several popular programs, running from $10,000 to $25,000 for a single presentation.

"I don't believe any man is worth $10,000 to read a lot of silly gags that some other man behind the scenes has written for him," said Mr. Hansell.

Some people liked to regard Sunday as the Lord's Day, yet "one of the thin edges of the wedge to destroy our great Christian tradition" was the commercialization of Sunday on the radio.

Four of the leading comedians on the air made their broadcasts on Sunday and recently some church services had been crowded out.

Leaders' Names In Broadcasts

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, referred to a statement in the House Feb. 8 by Mr. Hansell that the CBC had given undue prominence to the C.C.F. in its news broadcasts.

Mr. Coldwell said he had obtained the script of one report on the Commons debate in which Mr. Hansell had claimed Mr. Coldwell was mentioned twice while Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House leader, was mentioned only once. He said the script did not support Mr. Hansell's argument and was a fair report.

Far from feeling it had an advantage, the C.C.F. believed it was discriminated against, Mr. Coldwell said.

Replying later, Mr. Hansell said Mr. Coldwell was "wrong again." On the night in question he had listened to two different broadcasts and Mr. Coldwell had obtained the script for only one.

He said his constituents had told him the C.C.F. and Mr. Coldwell in particular, regularly received prominent mention and he had heard the same report from other sources.

"The CBC can't dangle the name of Coldwell in front of the people every day without having some effect," he said. "I can only say that somewhere the hidden hand is trying to build up this man."

Capt. Walter Tucker, Lib., Rosthern, Sask., also said there was a "shading of news" by the CBC in favor of the C.C.F. The tendency, he said, was to picture Mr. Coldwell as a man who would lead Canada into the promised land.

"Something has to be done about it," he added.

The committee set up by the House to review the policies and aims of the CBC and all related matters comprises 23 members—17 Liberals, four Progressive Conservatives, one C.C.F. and one New Democracy. It will be the second successive session that the CBC has been reviewed by a committee.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

We are rapidly approaching the climax of the experiment to determine how close the Allies can come to bombing Hitler into submission.

Less than a year ago Prime Minister Churchill told a joint meeting of the Senate and House of Representatives in Washington that the use of air power by itself to bring about collapse of Germany and Italy was an "experiment... well worth trying, so long as other measures are not excluded."

Since then the Allies have let loose a thunderous bombing assault which certainly contributed to Italy's collapse, and now has reached a peak of intensity never ment estimates were considered. H. H. Hatfield, Prog. Con., Victoria-Carleton, N.B., said that if too many United States potatoes were allowed to enter Canada the domestic market would be demoralized. Protection should be given to more producers since there was a surplus of potatoes in Canada at a time when the Prices Board was making purchases in the United States, he said.

Tom Reid, Lib., New Westminster, said it had been stated last year that the Fraser Valley area in British Columbia was a deficiency area in potatoes. That was incorrect. The valley could grow as many potatoes as were needed.

present offensive, and the coming amphibious invasion, is clearly shown by the fact that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's deputy on the western front is Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder. That's an unorthodox appointment, to say the least.

PAVING THE WAY
True, the Allied high command is preparing for the land invasion of western Europe on the theory that Germany must be finished off in battle on the ground. We are depending on the aerial bombardment to pave the way for what Mr. Churchill describes as "the greatest joint operation between two Allies that ever has been planned in history."

While it's generally agreed that the invasion is essential if victory isn't to be unduly delayed, there can be small doubt that Allied fighting men of all categories are watching the outcome of the bombing experiment with tense interest. They are wondering how long the Nazis can stand the round-the-clock assault which, already has reached frightful proportions.

We are rushing towards the climax of the second big-scale experiment of history to see how close air power can come to defeating a nation. The first effort was by Hitler in 1940-41, when he tried to blitz Great Britain into submission.

The Fuehrer failed, and so exposed himself to the terror which is now sweeping the Reich. We cannot judge the present offensive by what he did, for the striking power of the united Anglo-American air fleets far exceeds his greatest effort.

THE REAL EXPERIMENT?

WHEN MR. CHURCHILL ADDRESSED A joint gathering of both houses of the United States Congress last May 19 he devoted some of his 55-minute disquisition on the general war situation to the subject of bombing—what effect he thought it was having on the peoples in the two European Axis countries and what influence it would have on the course of the conflict from then onward. This is the part of the Prime Minister's speech we have in mind:

"Opinion, Mr. President, is divided as to whether the use of air power could by itself bring about the collapse in Germany or Italy; well, the experiment is well worth trying so long as other measures are not excluded."

Since Mr. Churchill so spoke the balcony orator of Rome has joined the ranks of the unemployed. Air power obviously had a anything yet employed, or, indeed, imagined.

If the fact that in the last six days, and nights 17,000 tons of bombs have been let loose on the various essential German war plants—last night on distant Augsburg—can be taken as any criterion, it may not be long before the technique not yet "imagined" is applied. When that day arrives, therefore, Mr. Churchill will be able to assess the value of his experiment; for then we may assume the "other measures" will be in operation.

good deal to do with clearing the way for the passage of Allied forces across the Mediterranean and into the Italian mainland. And while Hitler and his huge war machine never could be considered in the same category as Mussolini and his "8,000,000 bayonets," this week's unparalleled round-the-clock bombardment of the Reich's vital war factories has witnessed the most intensive experimentation to date. And if the Prime Minister knew nine months ago that the dropping of 17,000 tons of explosives in six days and nights was in measurable distance of accomplishment—and he does not speak without the book—what is in store for the Fuehrer when the Allied air forces hit the Reich which Mr. Churchill envisioned in his speech last Tuesday? He then told the House of Commons:

"The whole of this air offensive constitutes the foundation on which our plans for overseas invasion stand. In the scale, and the degree of attack will reach far beyond the dimensions of

RUSSIA SEALED HIS FATE

THIRTY-TWO MONTHS AGO THE Fuehrer of all the Germans sent his Wehrmacht crashing into the Soviet Union. In the essential military sense he had subdued the rest of continental Europe as far as the Atlantic. Britain stood alone across the Straits of Dover and was in no position to launch an invasion from the west for many a day. Not even the growing strength of Dominion aid was likely to speed the necessary counterattack. And what was simpler than to catch Russia off balance, conquer her quickly, burgle her vast treasury of natural resources, and then turn the full force of Germany's invincible armies and air force on Britain—the last bastion of freedom in the Old World?

It was a tempting picture which Hitler brought within the focus of his mind's eye on that June Sunday morning in 1941; and dozens of "experts" in many countries soon began to persuade themselves that the Wehrmacht could accomplish in the vast space of the Soviet Union what had seemed comparatively simple in the west in the spring of the previous year. In the first few weeks of the onslaught the progress of the Wehrmacht followed much the same pattern as it had followed through the Low Countries and France. Not until the Battle of Smolensk, toward the end of August, did the Germans get a foretaste of the fighting power of the new Russian armies. But not even the most optimistic outside of the Soviet Union—save, perhaps, Dr. Max Werner—saw in this first real test the dim shape of the beginnings of history repeating itself. Only when Moscow was saved a few months later did the world, including the "experts," breathe easier and readjust its concept of the quality of Stalin's dauntless legions and a people determined to defend their homes and hearths with all they possessed.

The swiftly-moving events since those fateful days are too fresh in our minds to consider them in detail at this stage. Since the battle for the Kursk salient—a concentrated German assault which lasted no more than five days—the scene has changed almost every day. Kiev, Gomel, Smolensk, Velikie Luki, Novgorod and Leningrad now lie well east of the firing line, while this last week has witnessed the capture of Krivoi Rog and Dno, plus yesterday's re-occupation of the great Nazi stronghold of Vitebsk. And it was a fortunate circumstance that the 26th anniversary of the founding of the Red Army should have coincided with these new and vitally-important victories. In other words, the Fuehrer of all the Germans not only has lost the war with Russia; he has been denied the vast natural resources which he for long had coveted. He is still strong; the Wehrmacht will fight bitterly inside "Festung Europa" until the end. But when Adolf attacked the Soviet Union 32 months ago he sealed his own and Germany's fate.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

DEMOCRACY AT WORK MUST BE EXTREMELY puzzling to men like Hitler and Tojo. What could they hope to make of the Washington scene this week? Mr. Roosevelt told Congress its treatment of the administration's tax bill was intended to serve the greedy at the expense of the needy. This was too much for his old friend and political colleague, Kentucky's Senator Alben Barkley, leader of the majority Democrats in the upper chamber, who promptly denounced the chief executive for the language employed in returning the vetoed measure to the representatives of the people. Having done so, he tendered his resignation, followed it with a letter to the President—who had hoped there would be no resignation—thanking the latter for his "prompt disavowal of any intention to reflect upon the integrity of the members of Congress, and, finally, graciously permitted himself to be re-elected by his group—a course which Mr. Roosevelt hoped would be followed and to which he also hoped his old friend would agree. So be it; but democracy prevailed. The emasculated tax bill will become the law of the land in 30 days—representing approximately one-quarter of the chief executive's request.

Some of Mr. Roosevelt's traducers have accused him not only of being a dictator but actually of desiring to be one. Few fair-minded students of the American political scene from afar believe this to be true. But this is election year and political tempers are apt to run wild when the battle for the presidency is in the offing. Nor is this our business. What should be clear to everybody, however, even to Hitler and Tojo, is that the President and Congress of the United States can engage in a full-scale political controversy in the midst of the world's costliest and most brutal war and emerge from it with no serious visible casualty. On the other hand, as Senator Barkley observed in his letter to the President, there is a "fervent hope" that this rumormongering of the tax veto will bring the legislative and executive departments of government "closer together." But what will puzzle the dictators more than anything else, perhaps, is the suggestion that after the Democratic convention next June, Mr. Roosevelt may find his senatorial friend from Kentucky his election running mate for the vice-presidency.

TIME TO END IT

THERE CAN BE NO DOUBT THAT THE opinion of the country, outside of that of a few political partisans, is expressed by the Conservative Ottawa Journal when it says that the time has come to make an end of the talk over General McNaughton. The story now, if it belongs anywhere, says the Journal, belongs to General McNaughton's memoirs, or to Mr. King's, or Col. Ralston's.

The governing fact in the incident is clear. It is that for the commander-in-chief of a country's forces in war, the government of the day must take responsibility. In the exercise of that responsibility, it may be wrong. But whether it is right or wrong, the responsibility belongs to it just the same and cannot be assumed or shared by any of the rest of us. We cannot make war by having our commander-in-chief selected by a public meeting, or by a vote in Parliament, or by the press, or by some process such as fan mail.

Also, it might be borne in mind that the changing of generals by governments during war is not new; it was done by Mr. Lloyd George in the last war, by Mr. Churchill and by Marshal Stalin in this war. Wars deal hardly with generals. As for General McNaughton himself, he goes out without a stain on his armor. He served Canada well and in his retirement has the respect and gratitude of his country, great soldier and patriot that he is.

INCOME TAX PUZZLES

THREE WEEKS AGO IN THESE columns we called attention to the fact that five identical statements of income were submitted to the income tax office by five reporters of the Cleveland Press. The puzzled members of the Fourth Estate returned to their office with five different interpretations of their accounting—ranging from a refund of $13.88 in one case to a tax debt of $246.10 in another. This experiment has brought the natural comment that when one tax department itself does not know what the return should be, the individual taxpayer may feel a little less discouraged as he tries to understand the tax form.

The Winnipeg Free Press, which has been devoting attention to the complexities and inconsistencies of the income tax, finds that the situation in Canada is much the same as that brought to light in the United States. There are many Canadians who cannot find out what they owe for 1942, 1941 and even for earlier years, with the government in the meantime piling up interest and penalties against them. In both countries it is high time that the tax collecting machinery, now hopelessly overburdened by current business, should be strengthened. This should be done in justice to the taxpayer and to protect the government from losses which are bound to be huge if collections are delayed for a period of years.

A rumor has been spread that money raised by the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund was being used for the maintenance of the Soviet embassy at Ottawa. The facts are, as reported by the headquarters of the fund in Toronto, that 98 cents of every dollar donated have been used to purchase medical, clothing, food, seeds and other relief supplies for shipment to the Soviet Union. Up to Jan. 1 of this year, the fund shipped to the U.S.S.R. 125 complete carloads, 2,875 tons, of purchased and donated relief supplies to the value of $3,982,528.

WINNIPEG.
UP AND UP
SOME INCIDENTAL information picked up in this strange, cold land of the prairies:

An elevator in a six-story building makes an average of 600 trips up and down in an eight-hour day. I have this officially from Mike, who has run the elevator in this building for more than 30 years. My mathematics is not so good, but I calculate Mike goes up and down 187,200 times a year and has made 5,615,000 trips so far, covering a distance of 106,300 miles or the equivalent of four times around the earth. The ups and downs of life, however, don't get you anywhere.

SOUTHWARD

BIRDS SOMETIMES GO southward in the spring. I found this out, too, from a bird writer in the newspaper here. His column, by the way, is the most popular thing published in Winnipeg because everyone here seems to be a bird lover and the mysterious movement of migratory fowl up and down the inner trench of the continent is well known to all residents of this region, who watch the sure quest of the birds and realize suddenly, as they look into a darkened sky, the narrowness of their own lives. The expert bird writer explains that often in the spring you will find birds moving south instead of north because they have got ahead of the season, find the north too cold, and go south to make a new start. That never occurs with us, of course, but down here I imagine it is pretty common. Often a man starts out from his house or office into the winter day and comes back and warms up and starts again, or doesn't start.

NICE WAY

A NEW WAY of making a living has been discovered in Britain, according to the Manchester Guardian which arrived in the office today. You inform on people who break the Sunday closing laws and then you get a percentage of the fine levied on them; the same charming method which can be used to make money by informing on Canadians who win sweepstakes.

Some fellows have been doing very well out of it in England and the Englishman at large is properly disgusted. He better than any citizen in the world knows that the enforcement of the law is the business of the policeman and that once it is taken over by amateur snoopers, personal liberty becomes impossible; and to pay men for acting as stool pigeons among their neighbors is a method only fit for the Nazis.

But, as the Guardian says, the only solution of this particular problem is to liberalize the Sunday laws and make them conform to the actual habits and desire of the people. This Mr. Morrison promises to do if he can get the public to back him. In this he will be opposed by all those who imagine that if the people can be kept from enjoying themselves on Sunday they will inevitably go to church when obviously they will do just the opposite, blaming the church for the fact that they can't enjoy themselves.

GOOD IDEA

FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES comes information that the population of that city has dropped by 10 per cent in four years. When every other city under the sky seems to be swollen with new population since the war began, the New York figure is news indeed. I like to think it is more than accidental, that New York is getting smaller because people are getting disgusted with it and have seen the folly of it. I like to hope that in North America we shall see a revulsion from the big city as from everything big for the sake of bigness.

So far, I admit, the movement away from size is not impressive. Only the big woman has been scrapped in favor of the Hollywood figure, but at least it is a start. Is it too much to hope that even Victoria will shrink a little after the war and regain something of its old happiness, the serenity which marked it from all other cities? Too much to hope for, I suppose.

MUSTARD PROTEST

A LONDON PAPER just in records that the British government is cracking down on firms which adulterate mustard or mix it in some way below standards. This is important to all mustard-lovers; for in the last several years a new flavor has entered the mustards of North America. I do not refer to the vile substance which Americans place upon their hot dogs and which has made its way somehow into this country. I refer to mustard, to the substance commonly called English mustard, though England has no exclusive claim to it.

Well, this mustard may not have been adulterated, its quality may be as pure as ever or purer, but someone has been playing tricks with it and, perhaps in an effort to improve it, has added a weird, sweet and sickly flavor which I have tried to escape in all parts of this country, without success. Who has been putting something into our mustard? I would like to know, and countless mustard connoisseurs in this land are asking the same question. If the public wants flavor in mustard as in an ice cream soda, all right; but we want mustard, neat.

War Widows and Cripples May Lynch Nazis—Werner

Nazism will be destroyed not only from without but also by the people who have suffered from it, declares Max Werner, military analyst who accurately forecast the course of the European war. Predicting that war widows, war cripples and concentration-camp victims will hold lynch courts for Nazis who escape United Nations' jurisdiction, Mr. Werner writes in Redbook Magazine for February:

"Fascism will be destroyed—I believe—not merely by pressure from without. It will be eliminated from within, by the reaction in the souls of the people it led and ruined. The Nazis know what is impending for them. Wrote Joseph Goebbels in the Reich of November 5, 1943: 'If we are vanquished it will mean the very end of our history.' Today we are no longer unfamiliar with the pattern of Fascist collapse. The popular forces which at first supported the regime, turn away. Then war makes the position of the two mainstays of the regime—the party machine and the leaders—critical.

"Fascism will leave behind it a people violently shaken, who will curse their own past and cry out for revenge against their seducers. Today we have the chance to destroy Fascism with German and Italian hands. Let us not miss it! It does not mean that we should stand aside. It means that we should so anticipate and stimulate the favorable internal developments in Germany and in Italy that Fascism can never rise again.

"Three sources, above all, will provide hatred against German Fascism: First, hatred will come from its old political adversaries who have awaited Judgment Day for over 10 years. Let us not forget that between 1930 and 1932, before Hitler came to power, Germany saw genuine civil war. Hitler's enemies were powerless, but they were numerically strong. During all these years the Reichstag elections showed a Socialist-Communist-Catholic majority—a majority, however, which did not function in the defence of democracy.

"The hatred of the plain, politically indifferent people in city and country is a second factor. In the small German towns and villages, Nazi graft, injustice and violence have been rampant for over 10 years. The hatred of the little man is not immediately discernible because it smolders beneath the surface. But it may well be toughest to deal with, since it has its roots in happenings of everyday life.

"And there will be German tribunals which will be charged with trying those Nazis who stand outside United Nations jurisdiction. Their judges and juries will be made up of war widows in mourning veils, war cripples and former inmates of the concentration camps. Many Nazis and Quislings will seek refuge with occupation authorities to escape the threatening lynch justice of their neighbors.

"From the Nazis' own followers may come the third, the most dangerous and deadliest kind of hatred; especially from German youth and the German army. It is they whose faith will have been most severely shaken. Since they will see no chance to get even with the victors any more, and have none of the old accustomed authorities to cling to, these groups will for some time feel as though they were suspended in midair. Nazism, as conditioned them not to talk, but to shoot. They won't be concerned with historical responsibility, but with the personal responsibility of the guilty. They won't look upon fallen Nazis as national heroes in distress, but as gangsters accountable for their misfortune as youths and their martyrdom as soldiers.

"For decades, the German forces of reaction have managed to relieve themselves of responsibility and to pin it on the shoulders of others—falsifying history. It is a passionately German character trait always to seek a scapegoat, and the Fascists have cleverly exploited this tendency. This time it won't work.

"Hatred and contempt will turn, in Germany, against everything that ever had any connection with Hitler, and likewise against Hitler's allies; his aides in Germany, the Hitler generals, the Junkers, heavy industry, Hitler's foreign satellites. The same trend will probably bring about in Germany a rather general interest in and sympathy for all those whom Fascism has persecuted and opposed. The reaction against Hitler will manifest itself in a tendency to have anything and everything different from the Hitler era.

"It will be necessary to educate Germany in a positive sense for democracy, but it will not be necessary to educate the surviving victims of Nazism away from it. War and revolution will have given Germany that education."

1944 CANADA HANDBOOK

The 1944 edition of the official handbook "Canada," published by the King's Printer, Ottawa, reviews Canada's war program, covering the growth and activities of her armed forces, the financial steps that have been taken, and the governmental organizations that have been created with their principal activities. It also reviews Canada's economic condition at the close of 1943. This introduction is followed by a special article dealing with the effects of the war on Canadian forestry. This article describes the extent of the country's forest resources, the present rate of depletion and how our forest products have aided the cause of the United Nations. Chapter material reviews in detail economic conditions—under various headings including population; survey of production, forest resources, fur production, fisheries production, mines and minerals water power, etc. All sections of the handbook are well illustrated by half-tone reproductions.

Mrs. Austin King Elected New Head Of Navy League W.A.

Mrs. Austin King was elected new president of the W.A. to the Navy League and Sea Cadets, at the annual meeting held Friday in the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. R. Shanks, retiring after eight years as president of the auxiliary, was named honorary president.
 Other officers are Mrs. R. Bunch, first vice-president; Mrs. T. Davies, second vice-president; Mrs. L. A. Lucas, secretary; Mrs. C. Filwood, treasurer; Mrs. T. Fulthorpe was appointed press representative and war convener, and councillors are Mesdames C. Smith, T. Davies, E. Jones, A. Stone and T. A. Green-Smith.
 At the opening of the meeting, silent tribute was paid the memory of the late Capt. J. A. Phillips, past secretary of the sea cadets.
 Capt. R. W. McMurray, president of the Navy League paid tribute to the work of the auxiliary, whose main object is to raise money for supplies and furnishings for the sea cadets, and to knit for the Canadian merchant marine.
 A review of the year's work was presented by the secretary, and included a silver tea on St. George's Day; a Trafalgar Day tea; contest for a war bond; assistance in the Navy League tag day; making ditty bags for the Navy League.
 Mrs. C. Filwood, treasurer, reported total disbursements of $187.75 during the year.
 Two new members were welcomed, and later tea was served.
 Mrs. R. Shanks, retiring president, was presented with a table lamp, in appreciation of her years' service to the auxiliary.

350 Girl Guides Mark Thinking Day

Celebrating the birthday anniversary of the Chief Scout and Chief Guide, 350 Girl Guides of Victoria met Friday night in Memorial Hall and in song and a candle-lighting ceremony, paid homage to their leader.
 Miss M. Hannah, head of training for British Columbia, led the companies in a song and round contest, won by the 6th East and 4th East companies, captained respectively by Mrs. Florence Wilson and Mrs. Foster. Songs were given as the Guides formed a huge circle around the hall, the competing company ranging themselves about a camp fire.
 Following the contest 2nd Central Company, led by Capt. Dora Stocken, held a Thinking Day ceremony with Guides from different countries bringing messages of cheer and courage from their land. W. C. Solway, provincial Scout commissioner, was a guest, and expressed his interest in the ceremony.
 Lunch and cocoa followed Miss Eva Harte's announcement of the contest winners, after which the ceremony closed with taps, and the King sang at the full salute.
 Miss D. Illingworth, provincial commissioner, took the formal salute of dismissal.

Latest Swim Suits At T.V.A. Ball

A trim-fitting bathing suit of sea aqua, a "classic in black," suits of royal blue with ric-rac braid outlining the front panel, and two-piece suits of a knit material were among the many suits shown at the 10th annual ball and fashion show, sponsored by the Canadian Legion, T.V.A., in the Empress Hotel Friday.
 Introducing the summer styles of 1944 were: Miss Joan Oldfield, Miss Nora Dryburgh, Miss Frances Harrison, Miss Barbara Beale, Miss Nan Wilson, Miss Betsy de Beck, Miss Winona Ross, Miss Sylvia Monckton and Mrs. Mildred Tupper.
 A striking blonde, Miss Oldfield showed to perfection a sea aqua suit with a panel skirt and low back when she opened the parade. Flared at the skirt and with convenient adjustable straps was the maroon suit worn by Miss Frances Harrison.
FLARED SKIRTS
 Flared skirts and higher bust lines were shown in the suits this year and all the suits had skirts in the front.
 There were fewer two-piece suits than usual and the colors were flat rather than those of figured material shown in former years. The "Capistrano suits" shown in the grand finale were of black and also red. They had the white panel front with a tiny flare skirt and at the hem line and neckline were applied swallows in contrasting colors.
 Miss Nan Wilson, modeling shorts and sweaters, looked very smart in scarlet with box pleats in the front and back of the shorts and a crew neck sweater.
 Mrs. T. A. Johnson was in charge of the arrangements for the show and the suits were shown through the courtesy of the Jantzen Knitting Mills.
 On the dance committee were: R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Standerwick, P. Gorst, W. Mills, D. Jones, J. Howard, Mrs. T. Fulthorpe, Mrs. A. Clarke and Mrs. F. Huelin.
 More than 700 guests danced to the strains of Billy Tickle's dance orchestra.

Plans for the Shamrock tea to be held on March 8, at the home of Mrs. L. Marriott, 453 Arnold Avenue, at 8, were completed at a meeting of the Qu Alex Club. Mrs. M. Smith presided. A sale of home cooking was held during the evening, and the mystery box was won by Miss Hilda Jaques. Reports were read by executive members and the prayers were read by Miss Malcolm. Next meeting will be at the home of Miss Ruth Coates, 1046 Suttie Street, March 28. Bingo will be played following the business session.

THE Home Nurse

SKIN NEEDS SPECIAL CARE IN A PROLONGED ILLNESS

By MARY BEARD
Director, Nursing Service,
Red Cross

The care of the skin during a long illness always presents a problem to the home nurse.

It may sound like exaggeration, but it is quite possible for the patient literally to wear holes in his skin, particularly if he is old, very helpless, or even thin. The reasons for this are: (1) Continued pressure on certain more prominent parts, such as the end of the spine, the elbows, shoulder, and ankles, shuts off the circulation and the cells in these parts die for lack of nourishment; (2) the constant irritation of the bedclothes sometimes chafes the skin and makes it very sensitive and easily broken; (3) moisture from perspiration or body discharges softens the skin and weakens its resistance. To prevent bedsores, the skin must be kept very clean and dry, and the pressure on bony prominent parts must be relieved.

NEEDS STIMULATION

Any part of the skin under constant pressure should be washed with soap and water at least twice daily, and gently rubbed to stimulate the circulation. Lubricating the hands with cocoa butter, sweet oil, or cold cream and applying it gently to the skin at the exposed points helps to keep it soft and resistant to moisture.

The bed must be kept dry and free of wrinkles, crumbs or other irritating material. The patient should be turned frequently to relieve the pressure under the shoulders, elbows, and heels, and between the knees and ankles when he lies on his side.

Alcohol and talcum powder are drying to the skin and may increase its tendency to crack. They should be used cautiously on very sick and very old patients.

At the last meeting of the W.A. Channel Islands Society plans were made for a card party to be held Mar. 16, at the Women's Institute 635 Fort Street. Drawing for the blanket will also take place on that date. Many parcels of good clothing have been received for shipment to Britain.

LOVE FINDS A WAY—After three years of corresponding and a one-year engagement, AB. Arthur Earnshaw of the Royal Navy and Miss Mildred Denman, 21, of Atlanta, Ga., met when the York-shireman arrived in her home town to spend his leave.

Army Women's Uniform Voted Best Liked of Three Services

TORONTO—The old saying about the navy having a way with women may be true in most respects, but when it comes to women's uniforms, the Canadian army wins by a length.

Experts in United States recently voted the uniform worn by women in the Canadian Women's Army Corps as the best of any of the armed forces on this continent. This verdict is endorsed by the average Canadian, who, in a coast-to-coast survey by the Gallup Poll has voted the C.W.A.C. uniform as the best liked.

The issue, of course, has more than mere bridge-table significance. Authorities have admitted that the design of a uniform has a definite bearing on recruiting and on morale. Moreover, latest figures show that one in every 66 Canadian women between the ages of 18 and 45 is now in some branch of the armed forces, and, therefore, is directly concerned with the issue.

To men and women in all parts of Canada, Gallup reporters put the question in this form:

"Which uniform worn by women in the armed services do you like best—that worn by women in the army, the navy, or the air force?" Prefer army, 35 per cent; prefer air force, 28 per cent; prefer navy, 12 per cent; undecided, 12 per cent.

While, to the mere male, the C.W.A.C. uniform tops the list, as it does with the women, men interviewed put the air force uniform in second place, while women gave second choice to the uniform of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service. Differences in the way men and women place their votes are shown in the following table:

	Men	Women
Prefer army	25%	34%
Prefer navy	20	21
Prefer air force	30	28
Undecided	15	9

It will be seen from the above that men are more undecided than women. This may, of course, be due to the fact that men find it more difficult to be objective in judging women's clothes. As one man put it: "It's hard not to be influenced by the model."

In the case of all three uniforms, the aid of Canada's foremost dress designers was enlisted.

Popularity of the C.W.A.C. uniform is not universal in every province. For example, in Quebec the navy and the air force tied for top place, beating the army by a fair margin.

The Stage

By A. M. THOMAS

VICTORIA COLLEGE PLAYERS

Amateur actors go through phases as inevitable and clearly defined as Jacques "seven." In some of them they are simultaneously old enough to put credible maturity into their impersonizations and young enough to be refreshingly enthusiastic. That is the stage which members of the Victoria College Players Club have reached and in which, Friday, they presented the first of two performances of three one-act plays in the Central Junior High School auditorium.

The second performance will be given tonight and Victorians will be well advised to catch the Collegians in their current phase. The next phase with most amateur actors includes membership in a dramatic "movement" with an ostentatious title, a smattering of stage jargon by which they call each other "dahlings" at frequent intervals and a conviction they resemble Barrymore or Lynn Fontaine in appearance and surpass them in performance.

In any case, Friday's show was wholly enjoyable. The last of the three playlets, "At Five o'Clock," by C. C. Carter, was the best of the two I saw. In it, Jane Rolton portrayed a mid-Victorian 1870—version of the modern hep-cat who gets her man over the objections of his overbearing but deluded mother, Joyce Harman. All four players, the others being Susan Ankettell-Jones and Rosemary Bridgeman, caught the right spirit of the snobbery and prudity that pervaded polite mid-Victorian society, while scenery and costumes struck no false note.

Pam Mitchell directed and music, by Queen Victoria's "dear Mr. Mendelssohn," was furnished by Mary-Lou Allen.

The second play was a literary gem adapted by J. Hampden from an incident in one of Sheila Kaye Smith's many good books of rural Sussex. Unfortunately, the key to it, dramatically, was tension, and the performance given Friday had about as much tenseness as a watch with a broken main spring. Sheila Francis played a mother who shelters a fugitive from the English equivalent of a posse. When the posse arrives she learns her refuge, her son's best friend, has killed him. The whole thing hinges on her indecision and the moment of suspense before she leaves the stage and allows the fugitive to escape.

It was an extremely difficult test for any players, professional or amateur, and the group Friday night did their best with it. Tonight's performance can and probably will be greatly improved.

Other players were Ken Wallis, Blair Fulton, Phil Nared, Jack Wallis and David Molson, with Verene Maurer directing.

The first play was "Cupid's Bow," a comedy by Barry Spanger, with the scene laid in the living-room of an apartment in a modern American town. Mildred Edmonds, Pamela Butcher, John Darling and Peter Castran constituted the cast. Frances Harrison directing.

In all three plays production was sound, little time was wasted between them and players, directors and those responsible for scenery, make-up and costumes, showed a genuine knowledge and flair for their particular roles.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

Very Easy To Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, is hard to beat, for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—anyone can do it. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really excellent cough relief—about 4 times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and lets you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

Have You Any Empty Space?

Rent Your Idle House Space to War Workers and Those With Families

Victoria is facing a serious war housing problem. Great numbers of war workers, vital to industries turning out urgently needed war material, are in immediate need of living quarters. To relieve this critical situation an appeal is being made to all householders with empty or unused space in their homes to make it available at once, for rent, to the men and women of war industry and their families. If you have any accommodation which can be used—you can help your city, your country, yourself, by renting it to war workers and their families.

THE NEED IS URGENT—ACT NOW!

Here's What to Do: Simply notify the National Housing Registry of the accommodation you have available. Write or telephone. The Registry is an official organization. There is no cost of any kind to you and registration commits you to nothing. Suites, apartments, family dwelling units of every kind—all are needed. List any and every vacancy today and help remedy the critical housing shortage.

Spring Vegetables To Be Early Here

While storms in California have halted vegetable shipments, and frosts in Mexico, dropped the supply of tomatoes, Victoria basks in the knowledge that its spring vegetables will be on the market much earlier than usual, owing to the "mild weather," one Yates Street wholesaler announced today.

"Though we are farther north we are having better weather than any of them," he said. "Our green onions are already in and we are expecting local spinach within two or three weeks. All local vegetables will arrive early. Brussel sprouts are still available."

There have been no vegetable shipments from California this week but it will be the week after next when the pinch will be felt here, the wholesaler said. Lettuce, celery, cauliflower, cabbage, broccoli and bunch carrots are affected.

Supplies of Mexican tomatoes are very short at the moment because of the frosts in Mexico. There is not one-quarter the amount needed to take care of the local demand, according to the wholesaler.

A 7,000-pound shipment of California walnuts arrived today and Spanish almonds are expected within 10 days. Roasted peanuts from Mexico and pecans are also available.

Victoria will experience a minor apple famine for approximately a week, as no apple shipments are expected, until the sixth of March and wholesalers estimate that dealers have, at most, a couple of days' supply on hand. There are, however, quantities of oranges with shipments arriving daily and Texas, California and Coachella grapefruit are available in plentiful supply.

City Group Raps Housing Rejection

The National Housing Administration, which entered negotiations with the city several months ago for conversion of two city-owned properties into multiple housing units, will be asked to proceed immediately with work on the structures, fulfilling their part of the agreement.

Meeting Thursday the lands group considered letters from the housing officials saying that department had decided not to proceed. The federal officials intimated a misunderstanding had arisen in respect to costs of the project, and that the required work could not be done at the original estimate.

The explanation, Ald. T. W. Hawkins said, did not satisfy his committee. The communications has been turned over to F. L. Shaw, city solicitor, he added, with the request he ask the National Housing Administration to live up to its side of the bargain. Since the agreement was entered into, the alderman said, a fire had occurred in the roof of one of the houses. Damage has not been repaired and some deterioration had resulted through rain on the broken roof.

"We feel," said Ald. Hawkins, "this is rather poor treatment from the federal department. We have been subject to many calls from local representatives of federal housing authorities asking help in providing accommodation to relieve overcrowding here. In view of the fact we have offered financial assistance and co-operation through these two dwellings, it is discouraging to have the authorities handle the question in this manner."

During the committee session four sales of unimproved property were undertaken, subject to council approval, for a total price of $700.

One exchange was also arranged.

Bomb-Proof Vault Cost $19,959

In reply to a question from Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Liberal-Conservative, Victoria, Public Works Minister Anscomb informs the House the provincial government had constructed a reinforced concrete bombproof vault on Topaz Avenue, by R. F. Castle at a total cost of $19,959.

The minister also informs the House, replying to Mrs. Hodges, that Vancouver Construction Company, at a cost of $50,499 is improving six miles of road between Cowichan Bay and Honey-moon Bay.

Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, Edmonton, special commissioner for defence in the northwest, has accepted an invitation to speak at the forthcoming annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, directors were told at a board meeting Thursday. The meeting will be held at the Empress Hotel April 5, when Gen. Foster will speak on northern Canada. He will use films to illustrate his speech.

On Being a Real Person ... Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick

Modern Life Overworks Brain
Underworks the Muscles

PRACTICAL suggestions as to ways and means of getting out of ourselves must start close at home with the body. Many of the worst symptoms of egocentricity, for example, are associated with fatigue. The mentally and nervously exhausted person inevitably becomes acutely conscious of himself. He is tense, hypersensitive, irritable, petulant. The way he feels fills his whole horizon.

Let the overstrain go too far and the last barricade is down against invading fears, anxieties, and unhappy memories. Many miserably self-centered folk need not so much a psychiatrist to analyze them or a minister to discuss morals with them as common sense in handling the physical basis of a healthy life.

OUR INHERITANCE

The modern man needs constantly to be reminded that he cannot slough off his biological inheritance. Our bodies were made to use in hard physical labor. Our forefathers were compelled to use them so or perish. They daily faced strenuous work that called into play their major muscles and sent them to bed at night too healthily tired to fret over imaginary worries.

Within a few generations millions of people have been transferred to urban life where hard, energy-consuming, muscular toil is not called for and where the higher brain centres bear the brunt of the burden. Multitudes of men no longer fell forests and plow fields; and multitudes of women no longer spin and weave and put their backs as well as their heads into the heavy tasks of the household. All this may be "progress," but the emotional and moral results for many are disastrous. We cannot outwit our basic biological necessities, ingrained in us by ages of evolution. To underwork the major muscles and overwork the higher brain centres is a reversal of our physical organism's normal and accustomed functioning, and few if any who try it come off scatheless.

Any man who has found his appropriate recreation or exercise where he can let himself go in the lusty use of his major muscles, knows what a transformation of emotional tone and mental outlook such bodily expenditure can bring. To be able to forget oneself in a strenuous game, to revel in a long hike, to work oneself out with an axe into satisfying weariness, or in milder ways to find ease of mind by letting the body forcefully express itself, is an evidence as it is a cause of health. In dealing with the everyday problems of self-centredness and its wretched morbidities, much of our psychiatry and of our religion is too high and mighty.

Practically every brain-worker, soon or late, knows what it means to go to pieces. To say that he has overworked his nerves is often only half the story; he might have worked his nerves to even larger output if he had not underworked his muscles. Because of that he finds himself in a jam and so begins worrying about himself; he becomes disconnected and is tossed about by his confusions. There was once an old sailor my grandfather knew

Who had so many things which he wanted to do That, whenever he thought it was time to begin He couldn't because of the state he was in.

From this beginning the road slopes down, sometimes sharply, into serious disintegration. The psychiatrist may call the result "psychoneurosis"; the minister may think it downright self-centredness; but often the cause that started the trouble was physical.

More People Become Neurotic From Laziness than Overwork

ASKED where he is, a man naturally defines his position in physical terms; like a sailor using latitude and longitude he locates himself geographically where his body is. Where am I? Is a much more difficult question to answer than at first appears.

Certainly no worthwhile person is merely where his body is. His family and friends may be widely scattered; where they are, he is; what happens to them there may affect him far more poignantly than anything that befalls him here. As Robert Southwell put it long ago, "Not where I breathe, but where I love, I live."

This extension of the self is one of the profoundest mysteries in personal life. Nothing except a person can so live outside itself. Objects of loyalty such as democcracy can become part of ourselves until what befalls them anywhere befalls us. Causes to which we belong can so absorb us that their success or failure is our own. Patriotism can so affect millions that the life they live within their bodies is willingly surrendered on behalf of the larger national life into which they have extended themselves.

Wilberforce can identify himself with the victims of the slave trade, Florence Nightingale with the unfortunates wounded in a war, and Jesus can carry this objectification of himself so far that he says, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

As truly as the body is dwarfed if it does not grow up, so the self is stunted unless it escapes from its self-absorption, objectifies itself, discovers itself in family, friends, interests, and loyalty beyond itself that its outer boundaries are hard to find.

Falling in love, for example, is certainly natural. It is not first of all a duty but an instinct. Its essential characteristic, however, is that self-sufficiency breaks down, and in a powerful surge of emotion one person identifies himself with another until hyperboles like "one soul in two bodies" are needed to express the consequence. As Mrs. Browning phrased it:

The widest land Docm takes to part us, leaves thy heart in mine With pulses that beat double. What I do And what I dream include thee, as the wine Must taste of its own grapes. And when I sue God for myself, He hears that name of thine, And sees within my eyes, the tears of two.

Along with love and friendship, one of the most durable satisfactions in life is to lose oneself in creative work. Every wise man seeks a task to dignify his days. No man can be himself until he gets out of himself into work with which he identifies himself. Even beavers build their dams, bees their honeycombs, and birds their nests. Rooted in a long past, there is in man an impulse to construct, an urge to create, a deep need to invest himself in work that becomes an extension of himself.

This is why more people become neurotic from aimless leisure and laziness than from overwork, and this is why unemployment is one of the worst of tragedies, its psychological results quite as lamentable as its economic ills. As Michelangelo said, "It is only well with me when I have a chisel in my hand."

Stop! Look! Leap Year!

Ancient Law of the Scots Insured Good Hunting For the Girls By Slapping Fines On Elusive Bachelors

By LESTER F. MILES, Ph.D.

THE author conducted a radio program recently and one of the most frequent questions from listeners seeking advice was, "Do you think it proper for a girl to propose marriage to the man she loves—Leap Year or 'out of season'—if he seems too shy to do it for himself?"

Of course I think it proper—if a girl wishes it that way. But even in these modern times a girl had better think twice before she takes the final step.

A long time ago it was perfectly safe for a girl to propose. She could look forward to Leap Year as a chance to save herself from spinsterhood because the law actually helped her gang up on the defenceless bachelor. For example, back in 1288, the canny Scots invented a law that read: "It is stated and ordained that during the reign of Her Most Blessed Majesty for the year known as Leap Year, all maiden ladies of both high and low estate shall have liberty to bespeak the man she likes, albeit he refuses to take her to be his lawful wife, he shall be mulcted in the sum of one pound or less, as his estate may be; except through proof he can make it appear that he is betrothed to another woman ... then he shall be free."

Yes, then he shall be free. Those Scots had a sense of humor.

A lot of girls are in love with shy, bashful men who can't seem to bolster up sufficient nerve to pop the question. Leap Year or any other time would seem to be the ideal moment for those girls—the men being willing.

Many women, however, will remain in the traditional role of the patient maiden and hope the man of their choice will raise the courage to speak for himself. I don't mean they'll sit around and do nothing while they wait.

They'll practice all the feminine arts they can command to make proposing as easy as possible for the boy friend ... for they really want him to propose rather than do it themselves.

A CLEVER girl realizes that a man has to be made to feel he has taken almost all the initiative and won over her complete co-operation ... that he was the hunter, not the hunted. You and I know that the opposite is more often true. So long as the man doesn't know it, the girl's position is strong because he feels responsible for their union. Women have been wise in this psychological technique since time began.

Most women wish to get married—and an excellent idea it is. Conceding that most men are lonely, moody, conceited, unreasonable, but frequently lovable creatures—they are nothing to be afraid of. Any man will agree that and any man will agree that he is worth winning. The girl who feels the same way will find very little in the way of obstacles.

Here are a few hints about things men usually shy away from—but quickly:

(a) Catty women. Be feminine—not jealous.

(b) Jealous women. Give plenty of evidence of a full, vital supply of feminine emotions, but don't badger him.

(c) Hypercritical and hypersensitive women. Don't make mountains out of mole hills.

(d) Husband hunters. Don't rush him to the altar. Let your association take that course by easy stages if that's the way it seems destined to go.

(e) Chummy, pally, sister-like women. Men like these qualities in other men; they don't go for them in women.

(f) Sticky women. Don't "use" him, try to play on his weaknesses, trip him into admissions or criticize him to others rather than to himself directly. He likes a woman who will try to meet at least a few of his own measures and standards of fair play.

AFTER you've found the man of your choice, your first and most important step probably would be to develop an active interest in his hobby. If he likes bridge, play well enough to be a good partner. Gradually indicate your interest in his career and future ambitions. Prove your adaptability by showing yourself to advantage in as many different surroundings as possible.

Now I'm not going to give you 20 or 30 questions to ask yourself about your male friends so you can select the one you should marry. Nothing could be more ridiculous. You've either already made up your mind or will when you meet the right man.

A few circumstances exist, however, under which I should advise a girl to do the proposing. Wait for Leap Year if you'll feel better about it, but sometimes these things cannot be delayed. Here are a few examples:

(a) If you have more money than he has, and he seems conscience-stricken over the fact, then propose to him.

(b) If he is very timid and introverted and has tried to ask you several times without actually succeeding, go ahead and help him out.

(c) If a matter of age stands between you—one or the other very much older—and yet you both seem to be in accord on the question of marriage in general, propose to him.

(d) If he has been tied to his mother's apron strings all his life and doesn't seem to know how to act in the company of any but an aggressive and domineering woman, well, it certainly would profit you to do the proposing if you expect to marry him.

PRESSURE of these war days makes it necessary for the proposed war bride to ask herself a few questions before entering into a hurried marriage. There may be a man shortage, but from the high incidence of war marriages it is hard to believe.

Will you be happy after the war fever and your initial overwhelming passions have cooled to a normal plane?

You can be reasonably sure of it if you'll examine yourself before jumping into a hurried marriage—whether it be to a civilian or that certain man in uniform.

(a) If he is a civilian, is he after a wife for the sake of the draft board? There are still some men around who might be affected by this change in marital status.

(b) Are you being swept off your feet in a moment of physical infatuation because the excitement of war has pushed you usual conventional caution into the background for the time being?

(c) Have you allowed his uniform to influence you ... would you like him permanently in civilian clothes?

(d) Do you know him well enough, his family, friends, background, to be sure he's your kind and that you'll be happy with them?

(e) Are you of the same religious affiliation?

(f) Will you refuse to waive the usually required health certificates? Does he agree with you on this?

(g) When he comes back from the wars, will he expect you to make your home with him in some distant city, far from your present relatives, friends, home surroundings, and will you be perfectly happy to do it?

What to Do With Germans

"WHAT TO DO WITH GERMANY," by Louis Nizer (Ziff-Davis Publishing Co., Chicago).

"HOW TO TREAT THE GERMANS," by Emil Ludwig (Willard Publishing Co., New York).

"GERMANY TO BE OR NOT TO BE?" by Gerhart H. Seger and Siegfried K. Marck (Rand School Press, New York).

"GERMANY AFTER HITLER," by Paul Hagen (Farrar & Rinehart, New York).

HOW can Germany be prevented from again plunging the world into war? The question will be of No. 1 importance at the peace table and the informal debate is already on, in the four books here listed and in many other forums.

Mr. Nizer, a lawyer, is of the school that finds no distinction between Germans and Nazis. It is not their leaders who cause wars, he says, but the German people. "They have developed a philosophy which makes a religion of war and a cult of mass murder." He rejects the idea of partitioning Germany, but urges its complete occupation by the Allies, immediate execution of some 5,000 arch-criminals, trial of many thousands more, dissolution of the army and officers' corps, complete military and industrial disarmament and re-education of the people. Germany would pay what reparations she could, and be closely supervised by an Allied commission. After convincing evidence of reform was visible, Germany would be admitted to the coming world organization.

Historian Ludwig is of German birth but a Swiss citizen. His condemnation of the German people is similar in many respects to Mr. Nizer's and occupies more than half his book. He sees Hitler as both morally and legally the true representative of Germany. The Germans elected their dictator, he says, so "they are all responsible."

In addition to proposals similar to Mr. Nizer's, this writer urges the burning of Nazi literature in great bonfires and a 50-year ban on the performance of Wagner's operas. He opposes dismemberment, but proposes a plebiscite on setting up Prussia as a separate republic.

The authors of the third book, a former Reichstag member and a former German university professor, differentiate between the Nazis and what they call "the other Germany." Hitler is not Germany, they say. He had no majority when he seized power. His executions and his prison camps are an admission that the people are far from a pro-Nazi unit. Why, they ask, punish Hitler's real opponents within Germany for crimes of their jailers?

Messrs. Seger and Marck urge execution and exile for the Nazi leaders, disarmament, elimination of the Junkers, breaking up of castles, re-education. The shock of defeat, they think, will show many young Nazis how their faith was misplaced, and convince them of democracy's vigor. The Allies' goal, these writers say, should be to prepare Germany for self-rule and a place in world order. They think German democracy, temporarily defeated by Hitler, can assert itself, after "sincere atonement, deep repentance and abject mortification," to create a stable, peaceful government.

Similar views are expressed by Mr. Hagen, a Viennese who opposes Hitlerism, as he opposed Kaiserism. He calls Germany a "retarded democracy," which can be turned to world co-operation by a purge of its war criminals, a period of occupation and other steps, followed by eventual recognition of the new regime he expects to result from a revolt of German anti-Nazis.

"A vindictive or solely punitive solution of the problem," he concludes, "will not solve it and will not give security to the world. Only a democratic peace can stop German aggression once and for all."

COUPLE OF VICTORIA boys who like to get in the squared ring and toss leather, deserve a pat on the back for their Pacific Northwest golden gloves victories in Seattle Thursday night. We refer to Vic Murdoch and Bobby Parker, who wound up the two-day slugfest with the fly-weight and bantamweight crowns tacked to their belts. Murdoch and Parker are two lads who take special pleasure in standing toe to toe with an opponent and firing punches until somebody kisses the canvas. They are real crowd pleasers, and their many boosters welcomed their latest triumphs.

Victories of Murdoch and Parker are noteworthy. They went up against the best civilian and services battlers in the Pacific Northwest to prove their right to the championships. That covers a lot of territory and proves the two swatters must have something back of those punches. Parker's victory and his other wins in recent months are especially pleasing to this writer. We remember Bobby as a sweet little fighter a few years back. He had a lot of promise, only to slip into near oblivion through failure to keep in condition and look after himself. Then he went into the army and started on the road back. Just how well he has succeeded is demonstrated by this latest success. Congratulations, Murdoch and Parker.

Northwest tournament was marked by the failure of Seattle to come up with any good boys. Seems the boxing game has really hit the skids in the Sound city. There is not a single boxing club operating in the town with the Y.M.C.A. providing the only facilities for the few boys who are interested. With no Al Hostake or Freddie Steele's interest in the game has fallen off. Then, again, Nate Druxman is no longer around to put over promotions, and it looks like it is going to take some time for the sport to get back on its feet in the Washington city.

Efforts of the S.P.C.A. to have a ban placed on horse racing at Hastings Park came as a surprise. We have always been led to believe the half-mile strip was one of the finest of its kind in America. On this continent there are all sorts of tracks, ranging from the high-class plants at Hialeah, Belmont Park, et al, to the half-mile ovals located in the bush towns. Somebody even went so far as to nickname Hastings "Little Saratoga." Of course, we have also heard the track referred to as the "bull ring."

Wallace Kelk, one of the finest racing authorities in these parts, has the following comment to offer on the Hastings track:

"Hastings Park is not perfect, since no man-made race track is absolutely perfect. Stones do keep working up, but the track is being worked over and improved every year. Half-mile track racing is, of course, tough on aging horses, whose bones and sinews have been weakened through long years of campaigning. More than half the racing casualties come from this sort of animal. If the worst of these cripples were eliminated from racing we would hear considerably less about horses being 'destroyed in a humane manner.' Meanwhile, Hastings Park still stands as one of the best half-mile racing plants on the continent, and certainly the best in all Canada."

Victoria's Minor Hockey League officials are off to Nanaimo with their gang of young players to open the island championships tonight. The clubs will resume the series at the Willows Arena Monday night. We ran into Bobby Van Horne today, and he told us he had taken on the job of trainer for the Victoria boys. "It was a pleasant surprise to me to watch these youngsters play hockey," Bobby declared. "They really have class, and the officials have done a mighty fine job. Discipline of the boys is marvelous, and I think the three Victoria directors: Eddie Kelpin, Doug Fletcher and Ivan Temple, have accomplished something that is a real credit to this city. I am pleased they have seen fit to ask me to become associated with these young players." With Van Horne in charge of the lads we know they are in the best of hands. They don't make any better trainers.

Golf Rivalry That Spans 25 Years

These local golfers have fought many, many battles on the links of the Royal Colwood Golf Club during the last quarter of a century. An itinerant photographer posed them on Feb. 20, 1919, and they went before the camera again 25 years later. The centre picture was the result. Last Sunday they kept a date to celebrate the passage of 25 years; hence the third in the pictorial record. Unless Bob Ripley comes up with a better one the quartette believe they have something of a record. Those in the picture, from left to right: J. M. Wood, manager, Begg Motor Co. Ltd.; J. N. (Jock) Findlay, salesman, Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd.; Harry P. Hodges, associate editor of the Times, and George Y. Simpson, manager, Victoria branch, Canadian Fairbanks-Morse Ltd.

Oxford Defeats Cambridge Despite Borrowed Shell

CAMBRIDGE, Eng. (CP)—Oxford today defeated Cambridge in the third wartime university boat race by three-quarters of a length. The classic, normally an annual one but twice dropped during the war, was rowed over a 1 1/4-mile course along the River Ouse. The winning time was eight minutes six seconds. Despite handicaps of a borrowed boat and a strange course, the dark blues took the lead at the half-mile mark and held it throughout. The umpire and rival coaches followed the race on horseback along the high banks of the isolated course through the fens. The upstream course has been used by Cambridge for trials for some years. Its inaccessibility cut spectators to a minimum. In contrast to the scores of thousands who used to watch the event in peacetime, staged on the Thames River near London. Some undergraduates managed to follow it by bicycle. Because of transport regulations, Oxford could not take their own boat. They arrived with only their oars and borrowed a boat from Cambridge. Each university had previously won a wartime race.

Alsab Not Likely Starter in Widener

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Owner Al Sabath reported Friday the chances are "very remote" that the horse Alsab will run in the $25,000 Widener Handicap March 2. "In all probability he will race no more in Florida," Sabath added. "One race is worth about 10 workouts," said Sabath, commenting on the scratching of the thoroughbred from a preparatory event at Hialeah park Tuesday. Veterinarians reported the horse lame; Sabath said he was not. "Inasmuch as Alsab is on the veterinarians' list, meaning he cannot run in an overnight event without a further examination—and I will not subject the horse to any more pushing around—I am inclined to think he won't go in the Widener." "Alsab improves with racing and if he gets one or two more sprints under his belt he could go in the Widener and probably win it."

Baski New Threat For Heavyweight Honors

Former Coal Miner Whips Mauriello

NEW YORK (AP)—The heavy-weight flistic ranks have a new title threat today—and the new title threat has a bride. The threat is 22-year-old Joe Baski of Kulpmont, Pa., former anthracite coal miner, who Friday night in a rough and rugged scrap before 16,015 fans at Madison Square Garden punched out a 10-round decision over Tammi Mauriello of the Bronx, N.Y. Mauriello entered the ring as the No. 2 ranking challenger for Joe Louis' crown, a 2 to 1 favorite, but he left it a badly-beaten boy. Baski, making his first main event start in the Garden, flattened him for a nine-count with a left hook to the jaw in the first round, piled up an impressive lead in the early sessions, and then coasted to victory. After the fight, Baski announced he was married just a week ago to Miss Anne Tomchik of East Nassau, N.Y., a farm girl he met last summer. Baski's bride was not at the ring-side for the bout, and she didn't hear it on the radio or read about it in the papers. She went to a movie, and then listened later while Joe explained what happened.

FINE RECORD

Until he ran into Baski's rugged wallop, Mauriello had lost only two heavyweight fights, both to Cleveland's Jimmy Blvin. Baski, who started fighting in 1940, has lost only two scraps, by decisions, to Teddy Wint and Gus Borazio, in 44 attempts. At the finish Mauriello's left eye was almost closed, and his nose and mouth were bloody. Judges Joe Agnello and Frank Forbes gave Baski six rounds and Mauriello four, while referee Billy Cavanaugh gave Baski six, Mauriello three and called one even.

ARMY TAKES MILNAR

CLEVELAND (AP)—Al Milnar, 31-year-old St. Louis Browns pitcher, Friday passed his pre-induction physical examination and was assigned to the army.

Chicago Hawks Use Joe Cooper Against Toronto

Chicago Black Hawks, fortified defensively by Joe Cooper and relying for offensive strength principally on the threesome manager, Paul Thompson describes as the best forward line in the National Hockey league, seek this week-end to strengthen their hold on fourth place—the league's last playoff spot. Now two points ahead of the fifth-place Boston Bruins, and with 11 games to play, compared with nine for Boston, the Hawks can strengthen their position by winning week-end engagements against Maple Leafs at Toronto tonight, and against New York Rangers on home ice Sunday. Boston's lone contest sends them into Montreal tonight for a clash with the league-leading Canadiens, who return to action Sunday at Detroit. Cooper, recently discharged from the Canadian army, gives Chicago added power on defence, but most of the Hawks' strength is generated by the fleet forward unit of Clint Smith, Doug Bentley and Bill Mosienko. Thompson says Toronto fans "will be looking at the best" when they see this combination in action tonight.

Gracie Suspended

PITTSBURGH (CP)—Coach Larry Aurie of the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League Friday night announced the suspension of Bob Gracie, veteran wing and centre, for the remainder of the current season for "indifferent playing." Aurie said the veteran of play in a dozen different National and American League clubs also was fined and will leave soon for his home in Ontario.

Basketball Tonight

Army Battle Combines

Vancouver Combines, featuring the high-scoring George McConnell, will be in town tonight for an Intercity Basketball League engagement against the Army at the High School gym, starting at 8:30. In a preliminary Yarrows will battle K.V.'s in the opener of the local intermediate A boys' final, starting at 7:30. Combines will be after a win tonight and are even bringing over their own referee, Ted Milton. The Army, beaten by the R.C. A.F. Flyers Wednesday evening,

Will Again Take the Floor Without Doug Peden

Monday night's games at the High School follow: 7:00—Yarrows vs. K.V.'s, second of series. 8:00—Game to be arranged. 9:00—Shawnigan Lake vs. Alcos, senior B play-off series.

Dodds Seeks Another Mile Track Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—G.H. Dodds will toe the mark in tonight's national A.A.U. indoor mile championship still without a finishing sprint, but weighted down with all kinds of advice.

It took Greg Rice, the perpetual motion machine of recent years, and Abel Kiviat, whose name was almost as great 30 years ago, to discover Dodds was running 18 inches from the shoulder of the track while the oval is measured six inches closer in.

The extra distance Dodds runs in the 11 trips around Madison Square Garden's pine saucer equals 11 yards, and the mathematicians immediately decided that if the Boston theologian did away with his running extravagance he would have finished his Baxter mile sprint last Saturday in 4:06.5, instead of 4:08. Not only will Dodds have the benefit of their advice tonight, but he also will have strong competition from Bill Hulse, Don Eurnham of Dartmouth and the Hume twins from Michigan, Ross and Robert.

Phillies Lead All In Pitching Crop

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—They may be last in many departments, as the records since the first Great War will bear witness, but the Phillies claimed National Baseball League supremacy today in the vital department of pitching—numerically, at least.

General Manager Herb Pennock said 17 hurlers were set to start training next month pending word to the contrary from their draft boards. All told, Manager Fred Fitzsimmons has a prospective squad of 36, as contrasted with less than 20 a year ago when Bucky Harris (who then hadn't clashed with former owner Bill Cox) lacked even a complete infield. The draft situation being what it is, "we don't know where we'll stand on March 19," Pennock commented, "but if 70 per cent of those we need report we'll be quite all right."

While the Phillies undoubtedly will notice Schoolboy Rowe's departure for the navy, they expect Dick Barrett, Al Gerheuser, Jack Kraus and Bill Lee back from last year's seventh-place club, with Ken Battersberger and Charley Schanz coming up from the Coast League. Two 1943 rookies also are listed on the hurling squad, along with a bunch of newcomers, Portly Freddy Fitzsimmons is on the active list and if 39-year-old outfielder Chuck Klein can play this season what's to stop Freddy? He's only 42.

CRIBBAGE TOURNAMENT

In the Army and Navy Veterans cribbage tournament S. L. Ricketts and T. Gibson scored their second successive victory with W. Cool and J. Williams second and G. Gardiner and J. L. B. Claxton third. A social evening followed the event. The next tournament will be held March 9.

LAMOTTA WINNER

DETROIT (AP)—Jake Lamotta of New York gained his third straight 10-round decision over Ossie (Bulldog) Harris by winning Friday night before 10,289 spectators who paid $25,527 at Olympia Stadium.

ORVAL GROVE SIGNS

CHICAGO (AP)—Orval Grove, leading pitcher with Chicago White Sox last season with 15 victories against nine defeats, signed his 1944 contract Friday. Grove, classified 4-F, will be available for a full season's work.

Lodestars Win Ice Series

Turn Back Trail 3-1

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster Lodestars are British Columbia senior hockey champions in fact as well as in fancy today.

When Lodestars won the right to represent the province in the Allan Cup playoffs, some hockey fans regarded it as a sort of ersatz title because they had not had to defeat the strong Trail Smoke Eaters.

Smoke Eaters, deciding to forego the provincial playoffs because their war work would prevent them from participating in the interprovincial games, finally agreed to an exhibition series.

Trail won the first game but New Westminster deadlocked the series by squeezing out a 4 to 3 win in the second. Then Friday night before a hometown crowd of about 4,000 fans the Lodestars beat Smoke Eaters 3 to 1, and assured the fans that it wouldn't be the province's second best team that is going into the playoffs.

Old Double X Will Return to Baseball

CHICAGO (AP)—Jimmy Fox, one-time American League home run artist, wants to get back into baseball this season.

Jim Gallagher, general manager of Chicago Cubs, said Friday Fox would apply to Commissioner K. M. Landis' office for transfer from the voluntarily retired to the active list.

Art Ross Critical

OTTAWA (CP)—Art Ross, Boston Bruins manager, said in an address here Friday to a service club that "Canada's national game is winning the war, and pray God soon." Ross criticized sports organization which thought of box office receipts in wartime. Of the National Hockey League he said: "A lot of things went on this year which won't happen again." His own team had given "thousands" for war purposes. The Boston manager added he is "hurt" when hockey players are put in categories that show

BLACKTHORN IRISH TWIST!

That's the attractive and accurately descriptive name for a man's suiting that has built up an ever-increasing circle of customers whose lasting satisfaction has come entirely from experience. And the suits of this famous fabric which have just arrived at W. & J. Wilson fully uphold a worthy tradition. The wool is grown in Ireland—combined with fine Australian wool, and woven in County Antrim in Northern Ireland. And as its name implies, it is a material that will provide unprecedented wear and keep its shape through the hardest usage. The tailoring of these new suits for business and professional men will please the most exacting critic. The color blendings of the various designs are quite exclusive, yet with all these outstanding advantages a suit of Blackthorn Irish Twist, as sold exclusively at Wilsons, is priced at only $50. And we would emphasize the fact that Blackthorn Twist has been made without change in quality or construction for half a century.

Chlorination Due At End of March?

Despite continued complaints over stomach trouble, chlorination of Victoria's water supply has not yet started and may not begin until the end of next month, G. M. Irwin, city water commissioner, said today.

Treatment must await completion of the plants at Japan Gulch and Humpback, delayed through slowness in receiving supplies and securing skilled technicians to make various installations.

When the roofs and walls of the buildings were constructed before last Christmas, the city water commissioner expected the system to be in operation by the end of January. Later he had set the end of February as the possible date. Today he revised his estimate and said chlorination might start late in March.

Referring to complaints he has received over alleged physical reaction to local water, he noted Victorians visiting Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Bellingham and other northwest U.S. cities seldom complained of the water they drank there although chlorination had been in vogue for some time.

Queen's Grads to Meet Dr. Charlotte Whitton

Dr. Charlotte Whitton, C.B.E., sociologist, will be in Victoria from Ottawa Monday.

Queen's University Alumni today arranged a reception to her. This will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hughes, 341 Richmond Avenue, south from Firfield Road, beginning at 8 p.m. Dr. A. E. Lavelle, widely known authority on criminology, will also attend. It was announced. An open invitation has been issued to all Queen's grads.

Led by Mrs. Dorothy Steeves, C.C.F., North Vancouver, a delegation of Opposition members of the Legislature Friday asked Premier John Hart to have the government take steps to stop logging on Hollyburn Ridge, which is in North Vancouver constituency.

Lieut. V. H. Eaton, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Eaton, 1216 Rudin, graduated from the anti-aircraft school at Llandrindod Wells, Wales, Jan. 13. Eaton left Victoria with the 62nd Battery in May, 1941. He was educated at Boys' Central, Victoria High and Victoria College and was a chorister at Christ Church Cathedral. Prior to enlistment in the army Eaton was employed by Straith's Ltd.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Edmonds, 1360 Pembroke, have been advised that their son, Lieut. Ronald W. Edmonds, has been commissioned overseas. Edmonds joined the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade in September, 1939, and was stationed at Albert Head, later transferring to the field artillery at Duncan, leaving there in August, 1940, for the east. He landed in England in September, 1941. Educated at Boys' Central and Victoria High School, he played rugby for the 16th Canadian Scottish and the Army "Red" team against Vancouver. Graduating in the same time as Eaton and Edmonds was Lieut. Adrian Stone, Cranleigh House schoolboy and son of Mrs. B. Stone, Monterey.

Word has been received that Sgt. T. A. Forbes, youngest son of Mrs. C. J. Forbes, 739 Queens, has completed his officers' training course in England. Forbes enlisted in 1939 as a private in the Westminster Regiment of B.C. He trained at Dundurn and Camp Borden and went overseas in the fall of 1941. The last three months of his officers' training course, Lieut. Forbes attended an English training school. At the graduation exercises he was given the award of "best all-round cadet"—the first time a Canadian had won the distinction at this particular school.

Squad-Ldr. Geoffrey Barnes, D.S.O., D.F.C., R.A.F., reported missing and believed killed in air operations overseas, is a nephew of Mrs. J. B. Davenport, 1244 Beach, Oak Bay. Barnes was at first turned down by the R.A.F. because he wore eyeglasses but consulted the most eminent eye specialists and was fitted with contact lens over his eyeballs.

Monthly meeting of the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society will be held at the City Hall next Thursday at 8.

Landing Craft Program Here Pushed by Howe

Outfitting of frigates here is not being delayed through lack of materials and every effort is being made by the Department of Munitions and Supply to speed the new landing craft construction program, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister, informed G. S. Culhane, president of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders' Union, Local No. 2, by telegram today.

The minister said he had been informed shipyard lay-offs were, in the majority of cases, caused by release of men of military age who had secured deferments.

The wire was a reply to one sent from the union urging speed in completing frigates, suggesting re-establishment of full shifts to provide labor for that work and acceptance by the workers of mass lay-offs should no further work be available when construction of vessels now under contract are completed.

"Telegram your efforts to increase rate of delivery of frigates," said Mr. Howe's message, "very much appreciated. Am advised outfitting these vessels not being delayed due to lack of materials or equipment and that there are ample supplies on hand to maintain outfitting operations at full capacity. Recent lay-offs are due to necessary change over from escort vessels to urgently needed landing craft resulting in reduction in number of berths which can be operated at Yarrow. This department doing everything possible to expedite plans for new program. Absorption of personnel laid off is responsibility of National Selective Service. In this connection I am advised that majority of employees laid off are of military age who have been working on deferment from military service heretofore."

Another telegram from R. W. Mayhew, M.P., stated he had taken up the matter with the Minister of Munitions and Supply, the Minister of Labor and the Director-General of Shipbuilding. "Will do anything I can to secure further work so as to have continued employment," Mr. Mayhew's wire added.

In a telegram sent later by Mr. Culhane to Mr. Mayhew, the union president voiced thanks for the city federal member's prompt action and added:

"We understand there are some repair jobs in vicinity. Possibly some of this work could be diverted to Victoria and would take up employment slack for next three months until new construction starts."

Upward revision of their wage and bonus scale requests will be undertaken by the city's outside staff, Ald. Ed. Williams, chairman of the public works committee, said today.

Delegates from the outside group appeared before the committee Friday, asked for a 10 per cent wage increase and a full government-scale cost-of-living bonus of $19.93 for family heads. The brief the outside workers submitted last year, in which they asked a 6 per cent wage increase and a bonus below the present figure, and will be revised, the alderman said.

Legislature's printing committee, under chairmanship of E. T. Kenney, Liberal Coalition, Skeena, will recommend that in future all government departments in writing letters use both sides of the paper.

Mr. Kenney said he thought the province should, in this regard, follow Ottawa. Some committee members said certain B.C. departments are now using both sides of the paper. The committee proposed that wherever feasible, this practice should be followed by all departments.

Civil Defence
Victoria District 1—An organization meeting will be held at Victoria West School at 7.30 Monday night. Wardens are asked to bring their friends. Insp. A. H. Bishop, Victoria controller, announced recruiting was progressing.

Victoria District 2—Recruiting of wardens in the Burnside district is progressing satisfactorily. Insp. Bishop announced today. He said he wished to build up the fire-and-casualty services.

Oak Bay—Wardens south of Oak Bay Avenue will meet at the Municipal Hall at 8 next Tuesday for first aid instruction, while those answering questionnaires will meet at 7.30. Wardens north of Oak Bay Avenue will meet at the Municipal Hall at 8 Wednesday evening for first aid instruction. Those answering questionnaires will meet at 7.30.

Victoria District 3—Instruction on war gases was given by E. J. Savannah of Victoria College staff at a recent Sector B meeting.

Inquiry Hears Of Log Royalties

The forest branch of British Columbia is receiving $100,000 in royalties over pre-depression years, but it is just one-half the amount that could be obtained had the royalties on No. 3 grade logs been raised from their depression level. C. D. Orchard, chief forester, told Mr. Justice Gordon McG. Sloan, royal commissioner, at the Friday afternoon sitting of the forest inquiry being conducted at the Courthouse. Readjustments brought royalties on No. 1 grade logs to $2.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Community Chest of Greater Victoria will be held on Tuesday, March 3, at 8 p.m. in the Princess Louise Room of the Empress Hotel, for the purpose of receiving reports, the election of the Board of Management and transacting any other business which may be presented. Any person over the age of 18 years, and contributing the sum of One dollar or over, is deemed a member and is entitled to one vote.

Need Space to Aid Ailing

With a waiting list of 16 for private and semi-private rooms and precedence given emergency cases, the Royal Jubilee Hospital has been forced, by overcrowding, to decline admissions for elective operations, it was disclosed by the management today.

That means citizens of Greater Victoria who would benefit decidedly from surgical or medical treatment requiring hospitalization must delay their hopes of improved health until such time as the extreme pressure for space abates through extension of existing facilities.

When the hospital authorities appeal to Greater-Victoria for $50,000 in private donations to help finance expansion they are voicing the pleas of those unfortunate who require remedial treatment available only in the hospital. It is a call from the ailing to the generosity of the public for urgently needed support in maintaining a first class hospital at its highest efficiency level.

No effort has been spared to make the greatest use of available space. Sunrooms have been brought into service to supplement existing accommodation. Discharges have been hastened as far as possible within the margin of safety. During January, when 628 patients were admitted, exclusive of maternity cases, 611 patients were released. The average number of days' stay per patient has been reduced from the 14.2 in effect two years ago to the present 12.1.

To facilitate operation of the maternity section, doctors are discharging young mothers with their babies within 10 or 11 days, instead of the 14 days formerly established.

In the latter field the less fortunate financially are assisted by the hospital's Junior W.A. which supplies mothers in need with milk and other requisites as a follow-up service provided by the institution's social service, operated in part by the young women.

Real Estate Board Fears Fanning Out Of Shopping Area

Fears of Victoria business districts suffering a postwar blow through decentralization to a series of secondary shopping areas, were expressed Friday by members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria meeting at Spencer's dining-room.

Members foresaw large department stores housed in single-story buildings covering as much as an acre, with spacious parking space being built in districts several miles from the centre of Victoria. A positive postwar plan co-ordinating other plans for the development of the whole area was urged.

The debate followed the discussion of postwar rehabilitation questions by E. J. N. Mitchell of the Royal Trust Co., who suggested the board focus its general intentions as outlined in its constitution on a specific platform.

He predicted in the long run such public mindedness would pay dividends in upholding the standard of the profession.

R. H. Shanks, president of the board, said the government, apparently, wanted every person or organization to submit postwar plans which would pass through a sort of clearing house and then when the time came those suitable plans would be considered.

The trouble with such a system, he said, was that no one had the foresight of postwar conditions to consider the plans in relation to a whole, instead of as individual projects.

He said Victoria's business district was crowded into a small area, no further development of the main street being possible, except by jumping "blank spaces" caused by a church at one end and the City Hall at the other. He predicted, however, any future development would be to the north and northeast.

Maj. H. C. Holmes said areas for new schools off main highways should be reserved now, while J. Arthur Wild suggested solutions by other growing cities should be considered.

FERRY NEEDED

On motion of Maj. Holmes, the board protested the discontinuance of the Mill Bay ferry service which was described as being vital to Saanich and Mill Bay residents.

Maj. Holmes spoke in support of the Red Cross drive for funds, which will open next week.

New members welcomed by Mr. Shanks were W. O. Wallace and Mr. Wild.

which was an all-time high; and No. 2 grade logs to $1.50, but the No. 3 grade were left at 60c.

"Maybe industry did get the better of that bargain," Mr. Orchard remarked, as he said that approximately 5 per cent of the logs cut are No. 1 grade; 40 per cent No. 2, and 55 per cent No. 3.

Discussing the grading of logs; the witness told the inquiry that hemlock, since it was beginning to take its place as a preferred lumber species, should be graded. The hemlock, he said, was recognized as comparable to Douglas fir in many aspects.

The inquiry adjourned at 4.30 and will reconvene Monday morning at 11.

Notice to Pile Driving and Other Contractors

Canada Army Paper Printed in Italy

Copy of the first edition of the front line Canadian army newspaper, "The Maple Leaf," published within sound of the guns on the Italian fighting zone, has just been received by A. H. Brien, 141 Cambridge, from his son, Sgt. Frank Brien, with No. 1 Provost Corps, R.C.M.P., attached to the 1st Canadian Division.

In attractive format, The Maple Leaf, in a four-page news sheet, printed in the interests of the Canadian troops in action, featuring home news by Canadian Press cable, up-to-the-minute front line operations and special features of interest to the fighting men overseas.

The first edition of the paper was launched January 14, with the sanction and blessing of Defence Minister J. L. Ralston, who recently visited the Italian front to see for himself the conditions under which Canadians were fighting.

Editor-in-chief of the newspaper is Lt.-Col. R. S. Malone, with Capt. J. D. Macfarlane as managing editor and Lieut. Fred Whitcombe as business and circulation manager.

"The Yanks in Italy had their own Stars and Stripes, the 'Limeys' had their Union Jack and 8th Army News... even from the German positions we captured we found that Jerry was getting his daily 'Berlin Bumph,' editorially says the first issue of The Maple Leaf in support of its advent. The paper gives full credit to Col. Ralston for the establishment of a direct air mail service which now keeps Canada's overseas servicemen in close touch with their homeland.

Many obstacles had to be overcome before The Maple Leaf went to press. Newspaper shortage was the great problem. The sheet will be published on a weekly basis for an issue or two until the editors clear up some worries over mats, ADRU, censors and field post offices; then it will become a daily.

The big feature of the first issue is a front page story covering the storming of "Point 59" on the Adriatic coast, one of the most important battles in which the Canadians have been engaged since the capture of Ortona.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE NATION

Just as the navy helps protect Canada's coastline, so does Scott's Emulsion, the great family tonic, help protect the health of the nation. This world-known preparation is highly recommended because it contains vital elements everyone needs to build up resistance to colds and common winter ills. Taken regularly, Scott's Emulsion tones up the system, improves appetite and general well-being.

This pleasant-tasting tonic is especially valuable as a food supplement for people who begin to slow down, tire quickly or are recovering from illness. Rich in natural Vitamins A and D, Scott's Emulsion is 4 times easier to digest than plain cod liver oil. This year-round tonic will help protect the health of every member of the family. Would Take Lands From Doukhobors Doukhobor lands in the interior of B.C. should be made available for returned soldiers, so that they could start ready-made farms, capable of producing returns from the start, T. A. Love, Conservative "Cochthon," Grafton Forks, Greenwood, said Friday in the Legislature.

Mr. Love said the attitude of Doukhobors has not justified the consideration shown them. They have paid only nominal amounts on their land, but the government is forever coaxing them to pay.

Drastic measures, Mr. Love said, should be used in dealing with Doukhobors—"these people who continue to challenge law and order in communities of the Kootenay country—it may be a federal matter, but Canadians are skulking from their obligations to the honor and memory of the brave young men gone overseas, when we permit these people to hold the law in such contempt—tolerance has long ceased to be a virtue in dealing with these people; we owe something better to the families of boys who have given their all of a better way of living."

12 Orchestras Parade For 4 Hours Tuesday

A gala event for the dancing public of Victoria "The Parade of the Bands" will be presented at the Crystal Garden ballrooms "Leap Year Night," Feb. 29, when the Victoria Musicians' Union, Local 247, will present 12 union orchestras which will furnish continuous music for four hours. Seventy-six musicians will take part and as one orchestra finishes another will take over.

Modern dancing will take place in the upper ballroom, while downstairs old time dancing played by two well-known old-time dance orchestras will entertain. In addition to dancing, a floor show will be presented around 11 when the Florence Clough and Wynne Shaw dancing schools and the versatile Victoria Skating Trio, will be featured.

The proceeds will be used to purchase war bonds in the next campaign. Seventy-six musicians will take their place at different intervals on two stages at each end of the south ballroom. Public address systems will carry announcements during the evening.

In Police Court

Charged with possession of morphine contrary to the Opium and Narcotic Act, David W. Phillips, who was arrested Friday night by R.C.M.P. officers, was remanded without plea in city court Friday until next Friday.

Ida Vivian Carle, alias Doreen Crawford, was fined $50 on a vagrancy charge.

Found guilty of failing to stop for a police siren, Eric Liddle, whose car and a motorcycle ridden by Constable Keith Hall collided at Yates and Cook, Feb. 11, was fined $25.

James C. Welsh pleaded not guilty to a Wartime Prices and Trade Board charge of unlawfully collecting passengers for a taxi by cruising. Trial was set for Monday.

Finding guilty of serving as a chauffeur without a license, Thomas Albert Lambe was fined $10.

Telegraphs Meet War Emergency

DAVID HOWARD

David L. Howard, assistant manager, Canadian Pacific Communications, western lines, Winnipeg, arrived in the city. He is registered at the Empress Hotel with Percival G. McLean, C.P.C. district superintendent, Vancouver.

"We have been pressed pretty hard, but we've never been at the point where the service has suffered. We have always been prepared to meet any emergency as it might develop," said Mr. Howard.

Mr. Howard paid tribute to the women in the telegraph service who have replaced men joining the armed forces. A large percentage of women are employed on the telegraphs and are proving most efficient operators, he said. The girl messengers, too, are proving very satisfactory.

Segur Says Members Need B.C. Outlook

Legislators of this province should get a British Columbia outlook, not a lower mainland or Vancouver Island outlook, Vincent Segur, C.C.F., Revelstoke, said in the Legislature Friday.

He criticized the $12,000,000 allotted to a Vancouver-New Westminster streamlined highway and said that amount of money should not be spent on one section, but should be distributed throughout the province for roads. He said that sum is out of all perspective with the amount being spent on roads in the rest of B.C.

'Community Mission' Closes Sunday Night

"Community Mission," which has been holding meetings during the week sponsored jointly by the Emmanuel Baptist and Belmont Avenue United Churches, will conclude with a special combined service in Emmanuel Baptist at 7:30 Sunday night.

Dr. Elbert Paul, guest speaker from Vancouver, will address the gathering on: "The Case for Jesus Christ." Combined choirs of the two churches will lead the singing. Rev. W. L. McKay will speak on: "Shepherding the Lost," at the morning service.

R. McLeod, of Vancouver, arrived here today to speak at Coast Hardware Hall, Douglas Street, Sunday, 8 p.m., on "C.C.F. or Socialism?" It was announced today by Kathleen Ash.

Third Officer M. D. Atkins, Brentwood, describes torpedoing of Empress of Canada and rescue by British destroyer two days later, in his log. Only 19, it's his second sinking. Mrs. Sam Cowan, Duncan, learns her younger son, FO. John David LeMare, R.C.A.F., is now presumed to have died in action July 23, 1943.

In Holding the Disciples' Faith Jesus Taught Them True Greatness

Text: Mark 9:33-39; 10:13-16, 42-45

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
Some of the 12 whom Jesus chose for His inner circle of disciples, if not all of them, showed at times such an amazing understanding of their Master and His spirit that one wonders how they ever came to be His followers at all.

Perhaps the strong incentive was their belief that Jesus was about to set up an earthly kingdom, though, except for Judas, they showed that they had character and faith that survived the revelation that the Kingdom of Christ was not of this world, and that the spiritual opportunity and greatness that lay before them was through the way of sacrifice, persecution and peril.

But at this stage of the ministry of Jesus their minds and hearts were full of this earthly kingdom, and in journeying to Capernaum they had been disputing with one another about which of them was the greatest. This may not be as strange and bad as it sounds; for it is quite possible that the disciples had not been making claims for themselves. Perhaps there was a champion of Peter who said, "Peter is the greatest of us"; to which some champion of John might reply, "No, John is the greater, steadier, more dependable."

But the sort of greatness about which they are arguing was far removed from the ideas of Jesus and the principles and standards of His kingdom. Jesus knew what they had been talking about, and when He asked them what had happened by the way they TED ANDERSON, 21, former Victoria College student, is now a navy lieutenant. He commands a Fairmile on the east coast. Cpl. Douglas Price, 1539 Richmond, wounded in Italy. Victoria High raises $1,655 at bazaar in aid of Junior Red Cross. United States liquor makes appearance in Victoria because of rationing, although authorities express confidence no large bootleg trade will spring up. Capt. P. B. German, R.C.N., succeeds Capt. Massey Gooden, D.S.O., R.C.N., as naval officer in charge at Esquimalt. Canadian Geographic shows pictures of Victoria pottery makers, among them Mrs. M. Grute, Mrs. C. D. Schofield, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdett. Lieut. J. A. B. Crawford, R.C.O.C., weds Beryl Frances Clarke of the A.T.S. in England. C.P.A. plans improved air service to Vancouver with seven trips a day instead of five. Pte. Sid Galt, R.C.A., wounded in Italy, Feb. 12, first anniversary of his enlistment in army.

LT. LIEUT. BUSTER BALANTYNE, R.A.F., reported missing on raid over Germany. Dora Stocken, appointed Girl Guide District Commissioner for Esquimalt. Lieut. Lesley Murray, C.W.A.C., appointed to Winnipeg. P.O. Frank Laughlin, R.C.A.F., 22, comes home on 30 days' special leave after service in Malta, Egypt and England. P.O. L. K. Firth, R.C.A.F., arrives overseas. Counsellor Lawrence Hagan, 71, dies suddenly at his Sanich farm. Thieves take cigarettes and beer from Tudor House. Condition of George Arsen, 2515 Beach Drive reported good after his car crashed into Bell's Apartments, 2914 Douglas, buckling the wall of Mrs. W. Logie's suite.

KEEL of the first landing vessel to be built by Yarrows Ltd. to the order of the British Admiralty is laid at Esquimalt yards. William Henley, 70, treated at Jubilee for injuries suffered when he was knocked down by streetcar. Postwar town-planning schemes for Greater Victoria which have appeared in Victoria papers lately have been brought to the attention of Bruce Hutchison, now in Winnipeg, who writes in his column suggesting "that we dredge out every other street in Victoria, make canals and create a Pacific Coast Venice. And the crowning purpose of this plan, of course, is to bring the sea to the Pandora Lighthouse, since the lighthouse cannot be brought to the sea. Also, with the present condition of things in Italy, we could probably buy gondolas cheaply." To witness a take-off for a major raid, against the background of an English sunset, is an experience never to be forgotten says Ft. Lt. Les Fox, home on leave from laid-directing post. Lieut. Victor Moore, 26, reported missing in action on Italian front Feb. 13. J. C. Ainsworth, 1795 Foul Bay Road, graduates as air gunner. Mrs. Eliza Graham Elly, 90, dies.

ENGAGED are Jacqueline Anne Verbunt and L.S. Gordon Albert Drew, R.C.N. Newlyweds include Josephine Pearl Wong and James W. Chin, Vivian May Nock and L.A.C. Gerald A. Creator, R.C.A.F.; Winnifred Joan Rudd and CPO. Osueld Henry Southon; Margaret Ellen Leach and Harry Monaghan; Dorothy Grace Bonnett and L.S. Robert Rowan, R.C.N.; Jean Emslie Milton and CPO. Navy Welders Work For Movie Scene

Underwater welding, a revolutionary development of the United States Navy, was photographed for the screen for the first time in Columbia's "Destroyer," the exciting sea story starring Edward G. Robinson, and featuring Marguerite Chapman, Glenn Ford and Edgar Buchanan, coming Monday to the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres.

Under the tutelage of Metal-smith 1/C Leo W. Harsh of the U.S. Destroyer Base in San Diego, Robinson was taught to use the devices which permit a welding torch to operate under water, and a scene was photographed from above the surface, showing Robinson welding a plate to the side of a destroyer, which, presumably, had been hit by a torpedo.

Collegians Scarce In 'Male Animal'

Most of Hollywood's authentic "college types" actually are in college these days.

Warner Bros. could not get enough "collegians" who belong to the Screen Actors' Guild to fill an auditorium for scenes of "The Male Animal," the campus comedy starring Henry Fonda and Olivia de Havilland, playing at the York Theatre, Monday. As a result, the Guild granted waivers to meet the emergency, and a hurry call was sent to the University of Southern California and University of California at Los Angeles' campuses for real students.

RIO THEATRE

Having starred as a pitcher on the high school baseball team in Glendale, Calif., Bob Steele played in a semi-professional league after his graduation. Steele is now at the Rio Theatre in "Death Valley Rangers," the Monogram Trail Blazers western drama, in which he is featured with Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard.

'Fallen Sparrow' Coming to Atlas

No tricks, holds or weapons are barred in the deadly undercover war waged between an American and some Nazi agents in "The Fallen Sparrow," RKO Radio's thrill-film starring John Garfield and Maureen O'Hara, coming Monday to the Atlas Theatre.

Not even love-making as a means of outwitting the enemy is beyond the resourceful American's will-to-win when he suspects that one or all of three beautiful women are in the plot against him. He makes love to Miss O'Hara, Martha Driscoll and Patricia Morison, with surprising results.

The suspense-packed and unusual espionage story was based on the novel of the same title by Dorothy B. Hughes.

Capitol Feature Has Mickey Rooney

The newest recruit to the famed aggregation of Dorsey musicians is none other than that noted film personality, Mickey Rooney. One of the numbers featured by Tommy Dorsey and his band in M-G-M's "Girl Crazy," which comes Monday to the Capitol Theatre, is George Gershwin's "Fascinating Rhythm." The piano soloist for this number is—Mickey Rooney.

Rooney, who co-stars with Judy Garland in the film, is known for his musical ability, and when he begged for a chance to play with Tommy Dorsey on the screen, Director Norman Taurog immediately agreed. A scene was written in the film to make this possible.

Other famous Gershwin melodies embraced in the film are

Automotive Union Initiates Members

Members of the newly-formed Automotive Maintenance Workers' Federal Union No. 151 were initiated at a group ceremony in the Trades and Labor Hall this week, following formal acceptance of their charter by C. W. Marshall, executive member of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council, on behalf of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Endorsement was given a draft constitution and the executive was requested to devise a method of certifying competency for all workers in the trade in this region.

Opinion was expressed the move would increase protection for members of the union, for employers and the motoring public.

Meetings will be held on the fourth Wednesday of each month in the Labor Hall.

Club Luncheons

M. C. Robinson of Vancouver, western national director for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, will address the Rotary Club Thursday on "Rehabilitation of Returned Men."

One Woman's Day...

By NANCY HODGES

AN UNUSUAL REQUEST

A VICTORIA HUMANIST'S philosophy of life is revealed in a will which has just been probated and which is remarkable for several unusual bequests.

The late John Newbery Hatch, who died here last December, in one of his numerous writings recorded that:

"We need a philosophy of life; and that philosophy should have as its objective a higher type of human being. Eugenics point that way. Mind, not money. Given a finer, fuller, saner, stronger human being, physically, intellectually and ethically, and our economic troubles would vanish like mist before the sun."

FOR BETTER BABIES
AND TO GIVE tangible and lasting expression to his belief in a sound mind in a sound body, Mr. Hatch left behind him the wherewithal to help nine Victoria babies annually to grow up healthy and strong.

The John Newbery Hatch Victoria Baby Clinic Trust Fund of $45,000 is designated by him to the following purpose:

"After the first day of January in each calendar year following my death, said trustees to inquire of the Victoria City Medical Health Officer, and of the Superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses at Victoria, B.C., who, in the opinion of such Health Officer and the Superintendent, are the nine children of mothers as hereinafter defined and which children during 12-month period terminating in the preceding year, have attended the Free Baby Clinic established and conducted under the auspices of the Corporation of the City of Victoria and

(1) Who have shown the greatest improvement in health, and which improvement they attribute to the attendance of such children at the Free Baby Clinic and

(2) Who, having so attended, are the outstanding babies from the viewpoint of health, and to pay to the mother of each of such nine children one-ninth of such net income."

DEFINES "MOTHERS"
THE BEQUEST ALSO stipulates that the mother must be of the white race, English-speaking, and have at least four children living.

She must also have resided in Victoria or within a radius of 20 miles during the 12 months, and her husband's income, together with her's, if any, must not exceed $2,400 during the year in question.

But the testator's humanitarian designs were not confined solely to the physical welfare of babies. He carried it further, into other fields intended for the betterment of young people.

$10,000 FOR SCHOLARSHIPS
IN ADDITION TO $5,000 to the Fairbridge Farm School and $10,000 to the Victoria Boy Scouts, he left a scholarship fund of $10,000 for Victoria students.

This scholarship, open to competition between students of Oak Bay and Victoria have in prewar days. The party the Canadians staged for the youngsters of that village is something the children will remember all their lives. There was a lot more in the interesting letter, which Mr. and Mrs. Pynn were keeping as a souvenir, but I have lost it. Am I on the spot?

As your thoughts turn to gardening about this time, there is no longer an excuse for not digging up those dandelions. Research for rubber from Pacific coast dandelions has been given up as hopeless.

If you take Cecil Solley's advice you will plant blueberries. He says they make a fine ornament, provide a fruitful hedge or fill in corners.

Good excuse as any. Cecil Snow, Oklahoma postal bandit, wants his release from Alcatraz prison. He says the climate doesn't agree with him. "It isn't the kind his doctor recommended. . . . Commanding officer in the Solomons encourages his U.S. snipers by forming a "Dime a Dozen Club."

A dime for every dozen Japs the snipers get. The U.S. snipers agreed it was a fair and reasonable price for a dozen Japs.

Scout Leaders Take Training Courses
Patrol leaders and second, from Greater Victoria and surrounding districts, are at their headquarters today taking patrol leaders' training course, under the instructorship of Field Commissioner Freeman King.

The training will include instruction on troop movements, camp organization, patrol hikes, running of games and other points on leadership.

The course was opened by W. Solway, executive commissioner for B.C., representing the provincial council of Boy Scouts. He welcomed the boys on behalf of the council and gave them a brief summary of the birth of Scouting and its growth up to the present.

Baden-Powell week will finish Sunday with the Scouts Own (a non-denominational church parade) to be held at headquarters.

Mr. Solway said the Boy Scout organization in Canada is preparing translations into five languages of books on Scouting for the re-introduction of Scouting at the end of the war in countries where it has been driven out.

He said it was important to bring Scouting to the front as it had proven itself of value prior to the war. One value which he mentioned was the binding of nations brought about by the international spirit of scouts in the many countries of the world.

High Schools, is designed to assist a boy or girl wishing to continue his or her education at the University of British Columbia.

But the student must have proved efficient in knowledge of English history and English literature. The amount of the award will be approximately $300 per year for four years.

HUMAN INTEREST STORY

BEHIND THESE generous bequests and this practical application of Mr. Hatch's admirable philosophy lies a human interest story.

Born in Kent, England, in 1861, he spent a somewhat unhappy and restricted boyhood. Owing to conditions of his home life, he was forced to curtail his own schooling at the age of 16 and help, with the aid of an older brother, to support his parents.

When he was 27, he went to Tientsin, China, and joined his cousin in a mercantile business which, at that time, was in a rather precarious condition. But by dint of extremely hard work and after undergoing genuine hardships, he finally prospered. In 1912 he retired and returned to England, and four years later came to Victoria, with Mrs. Hatch, to make their home.

ACQUIRED BY HARD WAY

DESPITE HIS frustrated childhood and his subsequent acquisition of things by what might be called "the hard way," Mr. Hatch was not sour, as is all too often the result in such cases.

On the contrary, his own early struggles inspired him to take a keen interest in the well-being of the children of Canada, and found final, tangible expression in his munificent bequests.

That love of children came to him from his great-grandfather, John Newbery, who settled in London about 1744 as a publisher and vendor of books. A contemporary and friend of Samuel Johnson and Oliver Goldsmith, he collaborated with the latter in the writing of books for little children, notably "Goody Two Shoes," which has entranced many a child since.

In fact, John Newbery was the first to publish such books. He also made journalistic history when in 1758, he published a paper in which "The Idler" first appeared.

INHERITED LITERARY BENT

IT WAS FROM John Newbery, too, that his great-grandson inherited a literary bent. Mr. Hatch's interests were versatile, but his tastes were purely those of a literateur.

A man of many parts, the name of John Newbery Hatch will live long, not only in the memory of those privileged to enjoy his friendship, but also in the memory of future citizens of Canada destined to benefit from his practical humanitarianism and laudable generosity.

ON AIR SUNDAY — Walter Dunant, outstanding authority on Russia, will deal with the question, "Will the U.S.S.R. co-operate with Canada and the Empire in the war against Japan?" and other questions in Canadian minds with regard to the U.S.S.R. when he speaks over the CBC Trans-Canada network on Sunday at 5.45 p.m. Pacific time.

Durant's talk will cover the free German and Polish movements on Russian soil, the significance of the creation of the 16 federated Soviet states, "Red imperialism," and Canada's new role in the air age to come because of her position between Russia and the western hemisphere.

As the only foreign correspondent who actually saw the whole development of the Soviet state continuously from the start, Durant speaks with authority. He was correspondent in Moscow for the New York Times and for American wire services from 1921 to 1941.

Victoria Diocese Observes Abstinence
Abstinence ruling of the Catholic Church with regards to eating meat on Wednesdays throughout Lent has been lifted in a number of dioceses in Canada, but will continue to apply in the diocese of Victoria, Bishop John C. Cody said today.

"We have the privilege of lifting the ruling at any time, but do not feel that it is necessary in this particular area yet," Bishop Cody said.

Catholics will observe Wednesday in addition to Fridays, and with the government decreed meatless Tuesdays, will have three meatless days each week in Lent.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Mild bidding for scattered rails and specialties served as a stock market prop today, although many leaders slipped to slightly lower territory.

It was one of the slowest sessions of the past three months. Thoughts of week-end war developments of importance brought profit cashing in some of the recently buoyant utilities, rails and industrials. The rebellion of Congress over the tax bill veto seemed to have lost much of its bullish influence.

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:
30 industrial... 136.58, up 0.02
15 rails... 38.82, up 0.19
15 utilities... 23.46, off 0.06
Total sales 336,000 shares.
